I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs Carl Esposito, Barbara Boland, and Anna Molin (the “Esposito Plaintiffs”) respectfully submit that they should be appointed Interim Lead Plaintiffs, and their counsel Keller Rohrback L.L.P. (“Keller Rohrback”) and Cohen, Milstein, Hausfeld & Toll, P.L.L.C. (“Cohen Milstein”) should be appointed Interim Co-Lead Counsel of this large-scale complex ERISA class action against Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc. (“Merrill Lynch”). Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein offer unmatched experience and expertise in this precise type of ERISA class action case, and, therefore, are best able to represent the interests of the class in this case.

Given the changing line-up of the competing firms, and the several now-moot briefs this has generated, we provide the following re-cap for the Court’s convenience:

- The Esposito Plaintiffs seek the appointment of their counsel Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein as interim co-lead counsel (pending class certification). Their motion was originally filed on December 14, 2007, and is pending.¹
- Plaintiff Yashgur sought appointment of Stull, Stull & Brody (“SSB”) as interim lead counsel on December 21, 2007. SSB’s motion is pending.
- Plaintiff Gidaro sought appointment of Shalov Stone Bonner & Rocco LLP (“SSBR”) as interim lead counsel on December 12, 2007. On February 11, 2008, SSBR abandoned its effort to be appointed sole lead counsel and submitted a new proposal in which it seeks appointment as co-lead counsel with Harwood Feffer, LLP (“Harwood Feffer”). Therefore, SSBR’s original motion is now moot.
- Plaintiff Donlon sought appointment of Harwood Feffer as interim lead counsel on January 3, 2008. On February 11, 2008, Harwood Feffer abandoned its effort to be appointed sole lead counsel, and as noted above, joined with SSBR.

Therefore, Harwood Feffer's original motion is now moot.

- Plaintiff Summers sought appointment of Spector Roseman & Kodroff, P.C. ("SRK") and Stember Feinstein Doyle & Payne, LLC ("SFDP") as co-lead counsel on January 11, 2008. On February 11, 2008, SRK and SFDP withdrew their motion, and, accordingly, no longer are seeking a leadership position.

Thus, as it now stands, two groups oppose the motion for lead filed by the Esposito Plaintiffs. They are (1) Plaintiff Yashgur seeking appointment of SSB as interim lead counsel; and (2) Plaintiffs Gidaro and Donlon, seeking appointment of SSBR and Harwood Feffer as interim co-lead counsel. The Esposito Plaintiffs previously filed an opposition to Plaintiff Yashgur's leadership motion. Thus, the Esposito Plaintiffs respectfully submit this opposition to the Plaintiff Gidaro and Donlon's Joint Amended Motion For Entry of [Proposed] Pretrial Order No. 1 Consolidating the ERISA Actions and Appointing Interim Lead Plaintiffs and Interim Co-Lead Counsel ("Joint Amended Motion"), filed on February 11, 2008.

Despite the many changes in some of the parties' positions regarding how best to organize counsel and to litigate this case, this Court's task is clear. When presented with competing motions, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide that "[i]f more than one applicant seeks appointment as class counsel, the court must appoint the applicant best able to represent the interests of the class." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(B) (emphasis added). The standards for selecting class counsel are outlined in Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(1)(C). Pursuant to this Rule, there are four factors that the Court should consider:

- (i) the work counsel has done in identifying or investigating potential claims in the action;
- (ii) counsel's experience in handling class actions, other complex litigation, and claims of the type asserted in the action;

- (iii) counsel's knowledge of the applicable law; and
- (iv) the resources counsel will commit to representing the class.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(1)(C). With all due respect to the competing firms, it remains beyond serious dispute that no combination of these firms can provide the class with the experience and expertise of Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein in ERISA class action litigation in general, or in this ERISA type of case in particular. Accordingly, the criteria set forth in Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g) firmly supports the appointment of Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein as Interim Co-Lead Counsel, with Cohen Milstein's New York office serving as Liaison Counsel.²

II. DISCUSSION

A. All Four Rule 23(g) Factors Support the Appointment of Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein as Interim Co-Lead Counsel.

1. Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein have taken substantial preliminary steps to prosecute this action.

As noted in our moving papers, Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein together have already taken substantial coordinated action to prosecute this lawsuit. See Memorandum in Support of the Esposito Plaintiffs' Motion to Consolidate ERISA Cases, Appoint Interim Lead Plaintiffs and Interim Co-Lead Counsel, For Entry of Pretrial Order No. 1, and in Opposition to Plaintiff Gidaro's Motion for Consolidation and Appointment of Interim Counsel for the Class ("Esposito Memo") at 14-15.³ Counsel for the Esposito Plaintiffs have:

- Obtained relevant Plan documents from Merrill Lynch and made formal requests for all Plan documents pursuant to ERISA §104(b);

² As there is no dispute amongst the parties as to the motion for consolidation of the ERISA cases, this response will focus on the proposed leadership structure for these cases.

³ For the Court's convenience, the Esposito Plaintiffs provided a courtesy copy of the Esposito Memo on February 8, 2008.

- Reviewed numerous Plan documents;
- Spoken with numerous class members;
- Interviewed additional witnesses knowledgeable about the allegations in the complaints;
- Drafted and filed detailed Complaints with careful analysis of the terms of the Plan documents as well as the specific factual circumstances that give rise to this litigation and on which Plaintiffs' allegations of ERISA breach of fiduciary duty and imprudence are based; and
- Monitored potential and on-going government investigations.

Id. at 14-15.

We draw particular attention to the Complaints we have filed on behalf of the Esposito Plaintiffs. The Complaints prepared by Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein are the result of the firms' own work and dedication to this area of law and their combined analysis of specific issues in this case. Having several years experience litigating ERISA cases of this type, Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein appreciate the importance of carefully detailing, among other allegations, the fiduciary status of the Defendants, as well as the specific conduct of Defendants alleged to have breached the particular fiduciary duties assigned to them. Such specificity can be critical in efforts to overcome challenges to the Complaint. The Esposito and Boland Complaints are detailed in these regards; Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein's investigation and drafting are informed by the specific challenges we have faced in the past, and lessons learned from them. Comparatively, the Donlon and Gidaro Complaints are not as detailed.

For example, the Esposito and Boland Complaints include more specific analysis of the applicable terms and workings of the three Plans, including citations to the Plan documents and Plan-related documents. Compare Esposito Complaint at ¶¶ 28-61 and Boland Complaint at ¶¶ 44-77, with Donlon Complaint at ¶¶ 34-39 and Gidaro Complaint at ¶¶ 12-18. Similarly, the Esposito and Boland Complaints include more detailed explanations of each Defendant's fiduciary status, and include supporting citations to the Plan documents and Plan-related documents. Compare Esposito Complaint at ¶¶ 62-92 and Boland Complaint at ¶¶ 78-108, with Donlon Complaint at ¶¶ 40-53, and with Gidaro Complaint at ¶¶ 19-28. These disparities are telling.

Furthermore, the Esposito Complaint contains allegations that carefully track developing ERISA jurisprudence in order to ensure that the Complaint avoids traps for the unwary. See, e.g., Esposito Complaint ¶¶ 172-77 (explaining that ERISA § 404(c) defense is unavailable to Defendants); ¶¶ 178-82 (explaining that Defendants' investment in Merrill stock is not entitled to a presumption of prudence); and ¶¶ 183-98 (explaining how Defendants breached their duty to prudently manage the assets of the Plans). As noted ERISA scholar Professor John Langbein states in his declaration submitted herewith, skillful research, drafting, and knowledge of the law are of particular importance, given the range of issues potentially contested in an ERISA action. See Exhibit B, Declaration of Professor John Langbein ("Langbein Decl."), ¶ 13(a)–(h) (discussing the importance of expert ERISA counsel in ERISA company stock cases).

Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein's concerted efforts in investigating the Plans' provisions, researching the law, and drafting the Complaints filed on behalf of the Esposito Plaintiffs are representative of the substantial steps we have taken to date to advance this litigation, and reflect our expertise in this complex and rapidly developing area of law.

2. Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein Have Unmatched Experience in ERISA Class Action Cases of this Type and Knowledge of ERISA law.

The second and third Rule 23(g) factors are generally considered the most important. See, e.g., In re Terazosin Hydrochloride, 220 F.R.D. 672, 702 (S.D. Fla. 2004) (explaining that the “most persuasive” factor in choosing lead counsel pursuant to Rule 23(g) may be proposed counsel’s “experience in, and knowledge of, the applicable law in this field”). Here, application of the second and third factors strongly supports the appointment of Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein as Interim Co-Lead Counsel for the class.

a. Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein

A review of the various firms’ resumes submitted in this case demonstrates that the Esposito Plaintiffs’ proposed leadership structure consists of counsel with the most experience, both in ERISA litigation generally, and particularly with regard to ERISA company stock cases. See Esposito Memo at 15-24; See also Exhibit C, Keller Rohrbach Complex Litigation Group resume; and Exhibit D, Cohen Milstein ERISA Group resume.

Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein are national leaders in the field of ERISA class action litigation. As noted in our moving papers, Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein have:

- Pioneered and obtained ground-breaking opinions in a wide range of ERISA class action cases, including a multitude of cases like this one challenging the prudence of investments in company stock;⁴

⁴ Some of the many examples of favorable motion to dismiss ERISA company stock opinions involving Keller Rohrbach and/or Cohen Milstein include: Whetman v. IKON, 86 F. Supp. 2d 481 (E.D. Pa. 2000); In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 263 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D.N.Y. 2003); In re Williams Companies ERISA Litig., 271 F. Supp. 2d 1328 (N. D. Okla. 2003); Tittle v. Enron Corp., 284 F. ⁵ For example, Mr. Lynn Sarko spoke recently at the DOL Speaks: Employee Benefits Conference; the American Bar Association’s Employee Benefits Committee Meeting; the Glasser Annual ERISA Litigation Conference; and The Los Angeles Benefits Conference which was co-sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, the American Society of Pension Professionals & Actuaries, and the National Institute of Pension Administrators. Mr. Loeser recently spoke at the West Legalworks 20th Annual ERISA Litigation Conference. Additionally, Mr. Marc Machiz has appeared on panels for the ABA, ALI-ABA, PLI, the New York Bar, the District of Columbia Bar and others.

- Worked with and for independent fiduciaries in connection with the DOL's regulated review of ERISA company stock settlements involving corporate plan sponsors and corporate officials;
- Established relationships with many of the key experts in the field;
- Worked extensively with counsel in parallel securities cases, and developed systems for effectively coordinating the discovery in the parallel cases; and
- Successfully guided clients through the exceptionally complex ERISA field, recovering hundreds of millions of dollars on behalf of employees.

This catalog of experience is not mere puffery. It reflects many years of dedication by the attorneys at Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein to ERISA and to this specific area of law. Our knowledge of, and contributions to, the developing body of ERISA law are acknowledged by our fellow attorneys and academics alike. See Exhibit E, Declaration of Mary Ellen Signorille in Support of Esposito Plaintiffs' Motion for Appointment as Lead Plaintiffs and Lead Counsel, ¶¶ 15–19 (discussing the competence, dedication, and resources of Cohen Milstein and Keller Rohrbach); See also Exhibit B, Langbein Decl., ¶ 20 (discussing Keller Rohrbach's ability to meet the demanding qualifications of counsel in ERISA employer stock cases).

(i) Keller Rohrbach

As noted previously, Keller Rohrbach has played a leading role in the development of this area of law by obtaining favorable landmark decisions and recovering over $750 million dollars on behalf of employees in this case. Esposito Memo at 16-20. Keller Rohrbach served as co-lead counsel in the ground-breaking case In re Enron Corp. ERISA Litigation, No. 01-3913 (S.D. Tex.). In addition, in this district alone, Keller Rohrbach serves or has served as lead or co-lead counsel in the following nationally prominent ERISA company stock cases:

- In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litigation, No. 02-4816 (S.D.N.Y.) (J. Cote);
- In re Global Crossing ERISA Litigation, No. 02-7453 (S.D.N.Y.) (J. Lynch);

- In re Polaroid ERISA Litigation, No. 03-8335 (S.D.N.Y.) (J. Pauley);
- In re Marsh ERISA Litigation, No. 04-8157 (S.D.N.Y.) (J. Kram); and
- In re AIG ERISA Litigation, No. 04-9387 (S.D.N.Y.) (J. Sprizzo).⁶

In addition, Keller Rohrback serves, or has served, in a leadership capacity in ERISA company stock cases throughout the country, including the following cases:

- Beazer Homes USA, Inc., No. 07-00952 (N.D. Ga.);
- BellSouth Corporation, No. 02-2440 (N.D. Ga.);
- CMS Energy Corporation, No. 02-72834 (E.D. Mich.);
- Dell Inc., No. 06-758 (W.D. Tex.);
- Delphi Corporation, No. 05-70882 (E.D. Mich.);
- Dynegy, Inc., No. 02-3076 (S.D. Tex.);
- Ford Motor Company, No. 06-11718 (S.D. Mich.);
- Fremont General Corporation, No. 07-2693 (C.D. Cal.);
- Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, No. 03-02182 (N.D. Ohio);
- HealthSouth Corporation, No. 03-1700 (N.D. Ala.);
- Household International, Inc., No. 02-7921 (N.D. Ill.);
- Krispy Kreme Doughnuts, Inc., No. 05-06187 (M.D.N.C.);
- Lucent Technologies, Inc., No. 01-3491 (D.N.J.);
- Merck & Co., No. 05-01151 (D.N.J.);
- Mirant Corporation, No. 03-1027 (N.D. Ga.);
- Pfizer Inc., No. MDL-1688 (S.D.N.Y.);
- Providian Financial Corp., No. 01-5027 (N.D. Cal.);
- Southern Company, No. 04-1912 (N.D. Ga.);
- Visteon Corporation, No. 05-71205 (E.D. Mich.);
- Williams Companies, No. 02-153 (N.D. Okla.); and
- Xerox Corporation, No. 02-1138 (D. Conn.).

Because of this extensive experience and the results achieved on behalf of our clients, Keller Rohrback is widely regarded as the nation's leading firm in litigating ERISA breach of fiduciary duty class actions.

(ii) Cohen Milstein

Cohen Milstein also has impressive experience and success in this field. As detailed in the Esposito Memo, Cohen Milstein's Employee Benefits Practice Group, headed by the former chief ERISA lawyer for the DOL, has prosecuted a wide range of ERISA class actions, including cases similar to this action. Esposito Memo at 20-24. The Employee Benefits Practice Group includes three attorneys who previously occupied management positions at the DOL with responsibility for ERISA litigation at both the trial and appellate levels. The decades of ERISA litigation experience enforcing the fiduciary provisions of ERISA is unmatched by any other plaintiff's firm seeking to represent benefit plan participants and beneficiaries injured by the conduct alleged in these cases.

As detailed in our moving papers, Cohen Milstein's experience covers a rich variety of ERISA class actions, involving a wide range of ERISA claims (i.e., retiree healthcare cutbacks, ESOP purchase of stock, pension benefit terminations and cutbacks). Cohen Milstein has led the prosecution of a number of ERISA company stock cases, and, as noted below, has often done so with Keller Rohrbach:

- In re Williams Companies ERISA Litigation, 231 F.R.D. 416 (N.D.Okla. 2005) (with KR);
- In re Dynegey, Inc. ERISA Litigation, 309 F.Supp.2d 861 (S.D.Tex. 2004) (with KR);
- In Re Merck & Co., Inc. Securities, Derivative & "ERISA" Litigation, No. 05-01151 (D.N.J.) (with KR);
- Hargrave v. TXU, Corp., No. 02-2573 (N.D. Tex.); and
- Walsh v. Marsh & McLennan, No. 01-8157 (S.D.N.Y) (with KR).

Thus, it is clear that Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein have significant experience in ERISA litigation in general, and ERISA company stock litigation in particular, and have devoted significant resources and time to developing an expertise in this area of law.

Defendants in this action have retained expert counsel with extensive ERISA experience, Skadden, Arps, Meagher & Flom LLP and Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher LLP. We respectfully submit that the best interests of the class would be served by the appointment of Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein whose experience in and knowledge of ERISA law is second to none.

b. Neither Counsel for Plaintiff Gidaro Nor Counsel for Plaintiff Donlon Match the Combined Experience of Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein.

(i) SSBR – Counsel for Plaintiff Gidaro

While fine attorneys to be sure, SSBR cannot seriously contend to have ERISA litigation experience or resources comparable to either Keller Rohrback or Cohen Milstein.⁷ SSBR identifies four ERISA class actions in which it has been involved. While it is not our intent to ⁷ In its initial motion, SSBR argued that it should be appointed lead counsel because it was “first to file” a complaint. The Manual for Complex Litigation advises that courts should conduct an “independent review” of the relative qualifications of each proposed lead counsel. David F. Herr, Annotated Manual for Complex Litigation § 10.22 (4th ed. 2007). Hence, a court should not appoint lead counsel based merely on who filed first, but rather such appointment must be based on a careful consideration of the Rule 23(g) factors. See, e.g., Nowak v. Ford Motor Co., et. al., 240 F.R.D. 355, 365 (E.D. Mich. 2006) (“Whether someone was ‘first to file’ by itself has little to do with who is the best qualified to lead the case, and does not satisfy the requirements of Rule 23(g).”). In addition, SSBR argued that it should be appointed lead counsel because its client suffered a large individual loss. SSBR appears to have been unaware that ERISA requires that actions for monetary losses caused by breaches of fiduciary duty be brought on behalf of the Plan, and not for any one individual. Thus, the amount of an individual class member’s loss is neither the focus of the litigation, nor an incentive for prospective lead plaintiffs in an ERISA case. See Exhibit B, Langbein Decl., ¶¶ 17–19. In addition, we note that Plaintiffs Esposito and Boland both suffered a loss in their Plan accounts, and thus, have standing to pursue this action. See Exhibit F, Esposito Decl. and Exhibit G, Boland Decl.

SSBR also argued that Gidaro’s status as a current employee and participant provided her with enhanced standing compared to former participants. But every Court of Appeals considering the issue has rejected the argument that former participants lack standing to sue under ERISA. See Harzewski v. Guidant Corp., 489 F.3d 799, 803-04 (7th Cir. 2007); Graden v. Conexant, 496 F.3d 291, 303 (3d Cir. 2007); Bridges v. Am. Elec. Power Co., 498 F.3d 442, 444 (6th Cir. 2007). Second Circuit authority is not to the contrary. See Caltagirone v. N.Y. County Bancorp, Inc., 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 29516 *9-10 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 20, 2007) (distinguishing the foregoing authority in a case where the plaintiffs had taken a full distribution from the plan before the fiduciary conduct alleged to have constituted a violation of law took place). In addition, at any rate, Plaintiffs Esposito and Boland are current Plan participants. See Exhibit F, Esposito Decl. and Exhibit G, Boland Decl.

denigrate their efforts in any way, their efforts in these four cases do not match the years of ERISA experience, and dozens of ERISA cases for which Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein have served as lead or co-lead counsel. While SSBR notes its success in other areas of law, this success does not distinguish the firm from Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein, both of which also have active securities and other class action resumes. We submit, moreover, that in this complex large-scale ERISA case, the focus should be on ERISA class action experience.

(ii) Harwood Feffer – Counsel for Plaintiff Donlon

Harwood Feffer has some experience in this area of law and, as reflected in their motion. While we certainly respect their efforts, we respectfully submit that, like SSBR, Harwood Feffer cannot claim the same level of experience or expertise as Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein. Of the approximately dozen distinct ERISA breach of fiduciary duty cases in which Harwood Feffer is involved (nine of the actions listed in their motion are related actions pertaining to multi-district litigation regarding mutual fund market timing), most are at relatively early stages.

Rule 23(g) requires a careful review by the Court of the relative qualifications of competing counsel. While we have the utmost respect for competing counsel, their firm resumes and legal argument do not support their claim that their “relevant class action experience and knowledge of applicable law ...strongly favor [appointment of] SSBR and Harwood Feffer, which are uniquely qualified to lead this prosecution on behalf of the participants in the Plan.” See Joint Amended Motion, at 14. On the contrary, based on the four Rule 23(g) factors, Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein are the best qualified to represent the interests of the class as Keller Rohrbach and Cohen Milstein have vastly more experience in cases of this type than the competing firms.⁸

⁸ We note that while Plaintiff Summers has expressed support for the leadership petition of SSBR and Harwood Feffer, the Court should accord this little weight. Plaintiff Summer’s

3. Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein Will Dedicate the Resources Necessary to Provide the Class with the Best Representation Possible.

As detailed in their moving papers, the Esposito Plaintiffs' Counsel have successfully managed numerous prominent ERISA company stock suits and have invested substantial resources in these efforts. Esposito Memo at 24. There is no question regarding our ability to dedicate the necessary resources to effectively pursue this case. Keller Rohrback includes fifty-four attorneys, while Cohen Milstein has sixty-six lawyers in the United States in five cities, as well as a closely affiliated London office staffed by four solicitors. Numerous attorneys at both firms dedicate their practice to ERISA litigation, and, indeed, have done so for years. Importantly, Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein's history of collaboration on ERISA cases ensures that the class will be represented by a cohesive team of attorneys, proven capable of the efforts necessary to pursue these claims, and bound by a shared history of shaping the field of ERISA law.

As demonstrated by Keller Rohrback's and Cohen Milstein's track record of success litigating ERISA class actions of this precise type, Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein have the resources and the expertise required by this large-scale and complex ERISA class action. We are national leaders in this area of law, with a broad store of our work-product that we can draw upon to efficiently and forcefully pursue plaintiffs' ERISA claims in this case. Consequently, the Interim Co-Lead Counsel structure proposed by the Esposito Plaintiffs meets the fourth and final requirement of Rule 23(g). Considering all four factors, we respectfully submit that Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein are the best qualified to represent the class in this case.

counsel does not explain how the class would be best served by the appointment of firms with less experience in this area of law than Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein, and, indeed the suggestion otherwise is nonsensical.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Esposito Plaintiffs request that the Court grant their motion for Consolidation of Related Actions and for Appointment of Interim Lead Plaintiffs and Interim Co-Lead and Liaison Counsel, and deny the competing motions filed by Plaintiffs Donlon and Gidaro and by Plaintiff Yashgur.

DATED: February 15, 2008.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on Thursday, February 21, 2008 at 2:15 p.m., Plaintiffs Carl Esposito, Barbara Boland, and Anna Molin ("Esposito Plaintiffs") will move this court before the Honorable Leonard B. Sand, at the Daniel Patrick Moynihan United Courthouse, 500 Pearl Street, Courtroom 15-A, New York, New York 10007 to enter an order: (1) consolidating the above-captioned actions; (2) appointing the Carl Esposito, Barbara Boland and Anna Molin as Interim Lead Plaintiffs; and (3) appointing Keller Rohrback L.L.P. ("Keller Rohrback") and Cohen, Milstein, Hausfeld, and Toll, P.L.L.C. ("Cohen Milstein") as Co-Lead Counsel, with Cohen Milstein's New York office serving as liaison counsel. This Amended Notice of Motion amends the Notice of Motion previously filed on December 14, 2007 in all above captioned cases except Summers v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., Case No. 07-11615 ("Summers") and Eastman v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., Case No. 08-0058 (“Eastman”), which had not been docketed at that time.

The original Notice of Motion was filed with a Memorandum of Law and Declaration of Derek Loeser in Support of the Esposito Plaintiffs’ Motion to Consolidate ERISA Cases, Appoint Interim Lead Plaintiffs and Interim Co-Lead Counsel.¹ All moving papers previously filed on December 14, 2007 were docketed in the Summers and Eastman cases prior to the filing of this Amended Notice of Motion, which is based on the above referenced Memorandum of Law and Declaration and other papers on file in this and the related cases filed with this Court. (See DE# 7, 8, and 9 in Summers and DE# 4, 5, and 6 in Eastman)

The Esposito Plaintiffs will move this Court for an Order formally setting forth procedures for the efficient management of the ERISA Actions, including the appointment of Interim Lead Plaintiffs and a leadership structure for Plaintiffs’ counsel. Because the above-captioned ERISA Actions contain similar allegations and seek the same relief, in accordance with the Manual for Complex Litigation (4th 2004) (the “Manual”), in addition to consolidation, it is appropriate for the Court to enter an order setting forth procedures for the management of these cases and appointing a leadership structure for Plaintiffs’ counsel.

In accordance with the recommendations of the Manual on Complex Litigation (4th 2004), Plaintiffs are submitting for the Court’s consideration a [Proposed] Order Consolidating

^{1/} The Notice of Motion, Memorandum of Law and Declaration of Derek Loeser were docketed on December 14, 2007 as DE # 6, 7 & 8, respectively in Estey v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., No. 07-CV-10268 (LBS); as DE # 7, 8 & 9, respectively in Gidaro v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., No. 07-CV-10273 (LBS); as DE # 6, 7 & 8, respectively in Moore v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., No. 07-CV- 10398 (LBS); as DE # 6, 7 & 8, respectively in Yashgur v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., No. 07-CV- 10569 (LBS); as DE # 5, 6 & 7, respectively in Donlon v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., No. 07-CV-10661 (LBS); and as DE # 5, 6 & 7, respectively in Shaughnessey v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., et al., No. 07-CV-10710 (LBS).

ERISA Cases and Appointing Interim Lead Plaintiffs and Leadership Structure, which: (i) consolidates the related ERISA actions, (ii) provides for the appointment of Interim Lead Plaintiffs and their counsel, (iii) describes the duties and obligations attributable to counsel thereunder, and (iv) directs counsel to confer regarding a preliminary schedule for these proceedings. Plaintiffs' Co-Lead Counsel will coordinate and organize Plaintiffs in the conduct of this litigation, and will ensure that the interests of all Plaintiffs are represented in the prosecution of this action on behalf of the Class. Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(2)(A), Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein seek appointment as Interim Co-Lead Counsel to act on behalf of the putative class before determining whether to certify the action as a class action.

All responses or replies to this Amended Notice of Motion are to be filed in accordance with Judge Sand's Individual Practices.

I, John Langbein, declare as follows;

1. I am the Sterling Professor of Law and Legal History at Yale Law School. For more than three decades I have specialized in the connected fields of trusts, fiduciary administration, probate administration, and pension and employee benefits, with particular attention to fiduciary investment matters.

2. I make this Declaration at the request of counsel for the Esposito Plaintiffs in support of their Motion for Consolidation and Appointment of Lead Counsel in this matter. In particular, I have been asked, in my capacity as an expert on ERISA fiduciary and litigation matters, to present my opinions on the relative importance of the factors that bear on the selection of class counsel in this matter.

3. This Declaration is organized as follows: Part I summarizes my expert credentials; Part II is an overview of the circumstances that have given rise to the class actions in this case; Part III points to the range and difficulty of the issues that arise in these so-called employer stock plan cases; and Part IV relates these attributes of the litigation to the selection standards for class counsel.

I. Expert Credentials

4. Current and Past Employment. I have been a Professor of Law at the Yale Law School since 1990, first as the Chancellor Kent Professor Law and Legal History and then, since 2001, as the Sterling Professor of Law and Legal History. Before joining Yale, I held faculty appointments at the University of Chicago (1971-90). Concurrently with my positions at Chicago and Yale, I held visiting positions at the Stanford Law School (1985-86) and at Cambridge University (1997-98).

5. Publications. I co-author the principal coursebook that is used in most American law schools that teach the pensions curriculum. John H. Langbein, Susan J. Stabile & Bruce A. Wolk, Pension and Employee Benefit Law (Foundation Press, 4th ed. 2006). In my scholarly writing about pension and benefit matters (scheduled in Exhibit A), I have particularly emphasized ERISA fiduciary issues.

6. Uniform Laws. I have served continuously as a Uniform Law Commissioner, pursuant to gubernatorial appointments from Illinois and Connecticut, since 1984. I was the reporter and principal drafter of the Uniform Prudent Investor Act (1994), which governs most fiduciary investing at the state level in the United States; it has been enacted in 45 states and the District of Columbia, and is emulated in nonuniform legislation in the other states. I served on the drafting committee for the Uniform Management of Public Employee Retirement Systems (UMPERS) (1997), which adapts aspects of ERISA fiduciary and regulatory law for ERISA-exempt state and local plans. Since 1994, I have served on the drafting and oversight committees for the Uniform Trust Code, the national trust act promulgated in 2000. I presently serve on the drafting committee preparing a uniform statutory business trust act.

7. Restatements. For the American Law Institute I am the associate reporter for the Restatement (Third) of Property: Wills and Other Donative Transfers, ongoing since 1990 (Vols. I & II, 1999, 2003; Vol. III forthcoming in 2008). I served on the advisory panel for the Restatement (Third) of Trusts: Prudent Investor Rule (1992), which updated the Second Restatement to take account of the developments in investment practice known as Modern Portfolio Theory. I continue on the advisory panel that is overseeing a full Restatement (Third) of Trusts (Vols. I & II, 2003; Vol. III, 2007).

8. Consulting and litigation. I serve as a consultant on fiduciary practice and fiduciary investment matters in pension and trust settings, and as an expert in pension and trust fiduciary litigation. Prior trial and deposition testimony is scheduled in Exhibit B. For published opinions discussing my testimony, see Cobell v. Norton, 283 F. Supp. 2d 66, 258-59 (D.D.C. 2003); Nickel v. Bank of America Nat'l Trust & Sav. Ass'n, 290 F.3d 1134, 1138 (9th Cir. 2002); Eychaner v. Gross, 321 Ill. Ap. 3d 759, 772, 776, 779-80, 747 N.E.2d 969, 980, 983, 985-86 (2001). Since 1994, I have appeared in a series of training videos for bank trust officers on aspects of fiduciary investing (produced by Federated Investors).

9. Employer stock plan ERISA litigation. I have a particular interest in the fiduciary implications under ERISA of using company stock in pension plans, especially IRC § 401(k) plans. I have served as an expert in a number of the major class actions concerning that practice. Responsive to the merits of those cases, I have served mostly for plaintiff classes but also on one occasion for defendants. I have testified on invitation to Congress regarding employer stock plan and other pension matters, most recently in hearings held by the Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs, Jan. 24, 2002, as a consequence of the collapse of Enron Corporation. My testimony in that hearing has been republished as "What's Wrong with Employee Stock Pension Plans," in Enron: Corporate Fiascos and Their Implications 487 (Nancy B. Rapoport & Bala G. Dharan eds., Foundation Press 2004), attached as Exhibit C.

II. Nature of the Merrill Lynch ERISA Case

10. The allegations against Merrill Lynch. Plaintiffs allege that during 2006 and 2007, Merrill Lynch engaged in a variety of business misconduct, primarily relating to its Collateralized Debt Obligations ("CDO") business. This misconduct has been widely reported in the financial press and is described in the detail in the Esposito Complaint. In brief, Merrill Lynch mismanaged its exposure to subprime loans in its CDO portfolio and failed to make appropriate disclosures about its subprime exposure, resulting in billions of dollars in losses, which were first revealed in October 2007. The SEC has begun an investigation of Merrill Lynch's handling of its subprime portfolio. The misconduct and related losses have severely diminished the value of the firm, and its stock price plummeted accordingly.

11. Pension plan consequences. Merrill Lynch sponsored three pension plans for its employees, the Merrill Lynch 401(k) Savings and Investment Plan, the Merrill Lynch Employee Stock Ownership Plan, and the Retirement Accumulation Plan. The structure and operation of the plans are described in detail in the Esposito Complaint. In brief, all three are defined contribution plans; the first is a typical 401(k) plan, the second a typical non-contributory ESOP, and the third a hybrid plan tied to the ESOP. All three plans had substantial holdings of Merrill Lynch stock.

III. Employer Stock Litigation

12. ERISA liability. Employer stock plan cases have become an important genre of ERISA litigation in recent years. The effort to recover some of the loss to the Plan in these cases typically takes the form of a class action alleging that the company, various of its officers and directors, and/or various outside service providers were ERISA fiduciaries, and that they breached ERISA fiduciary duties of loyalty and prudence to the plan participants and beneficiaries by engaging in and concealing the misconduct that subsequently impaired the value of the Plan shares. Dozens of such cases have been brought and successfully concluded; many others are pending, having been sustained against motions to dismiss, including the notorious Enron and WorldCom cases. See, e.g., In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 263 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D.N.Y. 2003) (motion to dismiss denied); Titile v. Enron Corp., 284 F. Supp. 2d 511 (S.D.

Tex. 2003) (motion to dismiss denied); In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litig., 02-4816, 2004 WL 2211664 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 4, 2004) (class certified); In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litig., 339 F. Supp. 2d 561 (S.D.N.Y. 2004) (bar order sustained); In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litig., 02-4816, 2004 WL 2338151 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 14, 2004) (partial settlement approved). See also In re Polaroid ERISA Litig., 362 F. Supp. 2d 461 (S.D.N.Y. 2005) (motion to dismiss denied); In re Polaroid ERISA Litig., 240 F.R.D. 65 (S.D.N.Y. 2006) (class certified); In re Marsh ERISA Litig., 04-8157, 2006 WL 3706169 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 14, 2006) (motion to dismiss denied).

13. The challenges of establishing liability. ERISA provides a broad framework that has allowed class action counsel and the courts to shape the employer stock cases, but ERISA does not provide a precise roadmap for such cases. Most of the case law has developed in the district courts on motions to dismiss that are, as a practical matter, not reviewable. The cases tend thereafter to settle, with the consequence that there is relatively little case law on found facts, and scant authority from the courts of appeals. Among the sometimes contested issues of complexity that can arise in an employer stock case are the following:

(a). Fiduciary status of the company. In order to recover for breach of fiduciary duty, the plaintiffs must establish that the defendants fall within ERISA's definition of fiduciary status, ERISA § 3(21)(A). In many employer stock cases, the company defends by contending that it has escaped fiduciary status by delegating fiduciary functions, often to committees or to individual employees. Substantial progress has been made in overcoming such purported defenses on a variety of grounds. See, e.g., Howell v. Motorola, Inc., 337 F. Supp. 2d 1079 (N.D. Ill. Sept. 23, 2004); In re Tyco Int'l Litig., MDL No. 02-1335, 2004 WL 2903889 (D.N.H. Dec. 2, 2004); In re Marsh ERISA Litig., No. 04-8157, 2006 WL 3706169 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 14, 2006); In Re Xerox Corp. ERISA Litig., 483 F. Supp. 2d 206 (D. Conn. 2007).

(b). Fiduciary status of officers and directors. Similar claims denying fiduciary status are commonly made by officers and directors. A main theme of recent litigation has been to establish that when such persons exercise the power to appoint other fiduciaries, the appointing fiduciaries have a continuing fiduciary responsibility to monitor those whom they appoint, and to inform those whom they monitor of matters within their knowledge. See, e.g., In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 263 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D.N.Y. 2003); Tittle v. Enron Corp., 284 F. Supp. 2d 511 (S.D. Tex. 2003); Cokenour v. Household Int'l, Inc., 02-7921, 2004 WL 725973 (N.D. Ill. 2004); Hill v. BellSouth Corp., 313 F. Supp. 2d 1361 (N.D. Ga. 2004); Agway, Inc. v. Magnuson, No. 5:03-CV-1060 (N.D.N.Y. June, 1, 2004); In re Polaroid ERISA Litig., 362 F. Supp. 2d 461 (S.D.N.Y. 2005); In re Marsh ERISA Litig., 04-8157, 2006 WL 3706169 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 14, 2006); In Re Xerox Corp. ERISA Litig., 483 F. Supp. 2d 206 (D. Conn. 2007).

(c). Plan design. A common defense is that the decision to offer company stock was a matter of plan design, not subject to fiduciary duty. There is important but as yet imprecise appellate authority for the view that the fiduciary duties of plan administration limit the scope of plan design defenses when the fiduciaries have reason to know that the company stock has become imprudent. See, e.g., Kuper v. Iovenko, 66 F.3d 1447 (6th Cir. 1995); Moench v. Robertson, 62 F.3d 553 (3d Cir. 1995); Herman v. NationsBank Trust Co., 126 F.3d 1354 (11th Cir. 1997).

(d). Relation to Securities Acts liabilities. In contrast to liability under the Securities Acts, the ERISA claims involve different parties. The ERISA plaintiff class includes persons who were deceived into holding the employer stock as well as those induced to buy it. ERISA also entails standards of care (prudence) and loyalty that are more protective than the fraud standard under the Securities Acts. In circumstances giving rise to causes of action under both ERISA and the Securities Acts, the interests of the two plaintiff classes is commonly adverse, because the likely recovery is seldom large enough to make all victims whole. For that reason, and because the standards differ, it has proven wise to have separate counsel and separate suits. ERISA defendants sometimes attempt to treat Securities Act standards as a shield against ERISA liability; there is growing case law support for resisting such moves. See, e.g., Tittle v. Enron Corp., 284 F. Supp. 2d 511 (S.D. Tex. 2003); In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 263 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D.N.Y. 2003); Rankin v. Rots, 278 F. Supp. 2d 853 (E.D. Mich. 2003); Cokenour v. Household Int'l, Inc., No. 02-7921, 2004 WL 725973 (N.D. Ill. 2004); In Re Xerox Corp. ERISA Litig., 483 F. Supp. 2d 206 (D. Conn. 2007).

(e). The ERISA fiduciary duty of disclosure. An essential element of most employer stock plan cases is the claim that the breaching fiduciaries concealed information that they knew or should have known regarding the wrongdoing that caused the employer stock to be improperly overvalued when sold to or retained by the affected plan. Defendants seeking to resist this liability sometimes claim that the duty does not exist, because it is not explicit in ERISA. The response has been that the duty to disclose is a traditional component of the fiduciary duties of loyalty and prudence, which ERISA absorbs and codifies from the law of trusts. See ERISA § 404(a)(1)(A)-(B). Other lines of defense against liability for breach of the duty to disclose attempt to distinguish between active misrepresentation and “mere” nondisclosure. Class counsel in such cases needs to show why nondisclosure misleads. See, e.g., Tittle v. Enron Corp., 284 F. Supp. 2d 511 (S.D. Tex. 2003); In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 263 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D.N.Y. 2003); In re Polaroid ERISA Litig., 362 F. Supp. 2d 461 (S.D.N.Y. 2005); In Re Xerox Corp. ERISA Litig., 483 F. Supp. 2d 206 (D. Conn. 2007).

(f). The ERISA 404(c) defense. ERISA § 404(c) protects the fiduciary of a defined contribution plan from liability when the plan participant “exercises control over the assets in his account” Important Department of Labor (hereafter DoL) regulations interpret this standard. 29 C.F.R. § 2550.404c-1. Defendants commonly seek to treat the deluded participant as having exercised such control. The cases have developed authority that helps counsel for the plaintiff class resist such defenses, on the ground that the nondisclosure at the core of the breach also prevented the plan participants from exercising the “control” envisioned under § 404(c). See, e.g., In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 263 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D.N.Y. 2003); Tittle v. Enron Corp., 284 F. Supp. 2d 511 (S.D. Tex. 2003).

(g). Damages and remedy issues. ERISA remedy law is extraordinarily complex, both because the damages and remedy provisions are clumsily drafted, and because the Supreme Court has overlaid the statute with a series of complex and counterintuitive readings of the provisions authorizing equitable relief. I have discussed the latter problem in the scholarly literature. John H. Langbein, What ERISA Means by “Equitable”: The Supreme Court’s Trail of Error in Russell, Mertens, and Great-West, 103 Columbia L. Rev. 1317 (2003). Below, in Part IV of this report, I discuss further the remedial implications of ERISA §§ 409 and 502(a)(2) for the conduct of an ERISA class action in an employer stock plan case.

(h). Co-fiduciary liability. ERISA § 405 provides for liability of co-fiduciaries who neglect to prevent or to remedy breaches of trust by other fiduciaries. The dimensions of actionable lassitude remain contested in the case law. See, e.g., Chao v. Wheeler, 2007 WL 4233464 (N.D. Ind. Nov. 28, 2007).

Beyond these large and prominent features of the landscape of employer stock cases under ERISA, there are literally dozens of lesser issues that can become contentious.

IV. Selecting Class Counsel in an Employer Stock ERISA Case

14. The four factors. Rule 23(g), added in 2003, codifies the longstanding standard that class counsel should “fairly and adequately represent the interest of the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. § 23(g)(1)B). Section 23(g)(1)(C)(i) specifies four factors that the court “[i]n appointing class counsel ... must consider” I reproduce the four factors here verbatim, save that, for ease of subsequent reference, I have interpolated the identifying Roman numerals (I to IV):

(I) the work counsel has done in identifying or investigating potential claims in the action,

(II) counsel’s experience in handling class actions, other complex litigation, and claims of the type asserted in the action,

(III) counsel’s knowledge of the applicable law, and

(IV) the resources counsel will commit to representing the class

Fed. R. Civ. P. § 23(g)(1)(C)(i).

15. The centrality of ERISA expertise. For the reasons discussed in Part III of this report, ERISA fiduciary litigation regarding company stock plans is a developing field of extraordinary complexity. Counsel needs to master not only a sprawling and sometimes poorly drafted statute but also the DoL regulations, the interconnection with the Internal Revenue Code, and a burgeoning case law. The technical difficulty of this rapidly developing body of law places special demands upon the expertise of counsel. Factors II and III of the Rule 23(g)(1)(C) factors for selecting class counsel bear directly on this aspect of a contested employer stock plan case such as the class action in Merrill Lynch, by emphasizing the importance of counsel’s “experience in handling class actions ... of the type asserted” in the particular case, and “counsel’s knowledge of the applicable law.”

16. Investigative work. The Merrill Lynch case is likely to be intensely fact-intensive, because the outcome will turn in part on the question of who among the persons alleged to be fiduciaries knew what when. The need for such discovery implicates Factors I and IV of Rule 23(g)(1)(C), because pretrial investigation and discovery call upon “the resources of counsel” both going forward (Factor IV) and already expended (Factor I). The depth of counsel’s expertise in ERISA employer stock cases bears on these resource questions as well, in the sense that experienced ERISA class action counsel is more likely to be able to target discovery activities and expenditures efficiently.

17. Number of individual plaintiffs; size of plaintiff accounts. Neither the number of individual plaintiffs that a particular attorney represents nor the size of the claim or claims of those plaintiffs is among the factors that Rule 23(g)(1)(C) requires courts to consider when selecting counsel. For convenience I shall refer to such factors as the numerosity value. The numerosity value is not a required consideration because it does not bear on all types of class actions. There are fields in which the courts have identified numerosity as important for the incentive that it may provide in monitoring the performance of counsel. However, in my opinion, ERISA employer stock plan litigation is not such a field, for the reasons discussed infra in §§ 18-19.

18. IRC § 415 restrictions on account size. Unlike other fields in which a class action may aggregate claimants with grossly differing interests, in the ERISA employer stock cases the individual accounts are mostly comparably sized and modest in extent. For reasons of tax policy, both employer and employee contribution levels are capped under the Internal Revenue Code. See IRC §§ 404 and 415, limiting the deductibility of, respectively, employer and employee contributions. Under IRC § 415(c), “annual additions” to a participant’s plan account may not exceed the lesser of $40,000.

19. Recovery to the plan. The structure of ERISA remedy law also diminishes the supervisory incentive of particular plaintiffs, because the statute requires that relief for such breaches of duty run to the plan.

(a). ERISA § 409(a). ERISA’s liability-creating section for the enforcement of ERISA-created fiduciary rights such as those at stake in the Merrill Lynch case is section 409(a), which provides: “Any person who is a fiduciary with respect to a plan who breaches any of the responsibilities, obligations, or duties imposed upon fiduciaries by this title shall be personally liable to make good to such plan any losses to the plan resulting from such breach, and to restore to such plan any profits of such fiduciary which have been made through use of assets of the plan by the fiduciary” (emphasis supplied).

(b). ERISA § 502(a)(2). ERISA remedy law then tracks section 409(a), authorizing “appropriate relief under section 409” ERISA § 502(a)(2).

(c). The complaint. The Esposito Complaint in this matter repeatedly invokes recovery to the plan under ERISA §§ 409 and 502(a)(2). (The Esposito Complaint also seeks equitable relief under other provisions.)

(d). The trust law basis of ERISA § 409(a). Recovery to the plan under ERISA replicates the result reached under the common law of trusts in circumstances in which the breach of trust diminishes a trust fund to which the beneficiary is not presently entitled or does not presently elect to receive distribution. In such cases, as in the employer stock plan cases under ERISA, the recovery for breach of trust runs to the trust.

(e). The intrinsically representative character of recovery under ERISA § 409(a).

Unlike class actions that aggregate distinct harms on account of important commonalities, class actions for breach of fiduciary duty in ERISA employer stock plan cases vindicate an intrinsically representative cause of action, for recovery to the plan. Accordingly, considerations developed in other fields of class action law to align the incentives of class counsel with particularly aggrieved claimants have no counterpart in cases such as Merrill Lynch.

V. Conclusion

20. The importance of selecting counsel who are deeply experienced in ERISA employer stock cases. The facts alleged in the Merrill Lynch case, if proven, would establish liability for an egregious breach of fiduciary duty under ERISA. The pending class actions against the breaching fiduciaries are the only hope for restoring some portion of the Plan's losses, hence for restoring assets on which many of the participants and beneficiaries depend for their retirement. Successful prosecution of this civil suit will, in combination with other such suits that have been concluded or are in progress, have an important deterrent effect against future wrongdoing by company insiders who are ERISA fiduciaries. Because of the complexity both of the law and of the necessary fact-gathering, it is vital to select counsel who are deeply experienced in ERISA employer stock cases and who will devote the necessary resources to investigating and pursuing the Merrill Lynch case.

Based on my experience working with Keller Rohrback on several employer stock ERISA cases, I am confident that Keller Rohrback meets these qualifications. They are learned in the field, they have staffed their cases well, and they have been persistent and successful in obtaining settlements that genuinely maximize the interests of affected plan participants.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare that under penalty of perjury that the foregoing statements of fact are, to the best of my knowledge, true and correct and that the foregoing statements of opinion are my honestly held opinions.

Exhibit C

What's Wrong with Employer Stock Pension Plans

*John H. Langbein

I appreciate the invitation to speak with you about the pension investment aspects of the Enron Corporation bankruptcy.

I have been teaching and writing about pension law and pension policy for two decades. I coauthor the principal book on pension law that is used in American law schools.¹ I serve as a Uniform Law Commissioner from Connecticut, and I was the reporter (drafter) for the Uniform Prudent Investor Act (1994), which now governs fiduciary investing at the state level in most American states.

1. The Enron plan. Enron Corp. sponsored a 401(k) pension plan for its employees.² The plan permitted the employee to contribute up to 15 percent of his or her salary, subject to a ceiling.³ Enron made a matching contribution of half of what the employee contributed.⁴ The sums contributed by both employee and employer were tax deferred under Sections 401(a) and 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code. The plan provided that Enron's contribution would be entirely in Enron stock.⁵ The employee participant could choose to invest his or her contribution among a menu of options, including leading well-diversified mutual funds⁶ or more Enron stock.

The plan required the employee-participant to hold the employer-contributed Enron shares until age fifty.⁷ Only at that age could he or she direct that the Enron shares be sold and the proceeds redirected into other investments. With respect to these match shares, the plan made the employee-participants into involuntary Enron shareholders until age fifty.

As Enron's financial difficulties began to be revealed in the fall of 2001, the value of Enron shares, including those held in the pension plan accounts, declined precipitously. Shares that had traded above $80 per share at the apogee are now effectively worthless. As a result, many Enron employees have lost huge portions of their expected retirement funds—both the employer-match shares and those Enron shares that many employees elected to purchase with their own contributed funds.

Although some of the alleged financial skulduggery of Enron's managers, directors, and accountants may have violated ERISA fiduciary law, it is vital for Congress to understand that the key feature of the Enron plan that made it possible for these losses to occur—the large concentration of employer stock in the plan's investments—was permitted under ERISA, the federal pension regulatory law.

ERISA invited this mess, and unless you change ERISA, I can predict to you with utter certainty that such cases will happen again, as they have repeatedly in the past. What's new about the Enron calamity is simply the enormity of the losses.

2. DC plans. 401(k) plans such as Enron's are known as defined contribution (DC) plans, or in the language of ERISA, as "individual account plans." DC plans "provide[] for an individual account for each participant;" the participant's "benefits are based solely upon the amount contributed to the participant's account," plus the investment experience (dividends, gains or losses) of the account. ERISA § 3(34).

The distinctive feature of any DC plan is that investment risk rests entirely upon the account of each participating employee. The employee captures market gains, the employee suffers market declines.

By contrast, in a traditional defined benefit (DB) plan of the sort that prevails among large employers in manufacturing and transportation industries and utilities, the employer (or other sponsor) bears the investment risk. In a DB plan, the employer promises the employee a certain benefit on retirement, and if the investments in the pension fund don't produce enough to pay the benefit, the employer must make up the shortfall from company assets.

3. The DC or 401(k) structure is not the problem. As ERISA now stands, the high concentration of employer stock that allowed the catastrophic losses to the Enron employees could only have occurred in a DC plan, because ERISA's diversification requirements (discussed below) would have prevented these concentrations in a DB plan. It would be a fallacy, however, to conclude that the problem lies in the nature of DC plans. The truth is that it is as easy to avoid over-concentration in a single stock in a DC plan as in a DB plan. For example, most of us who are employed in academia participate in DC plans operated by TIAA-CREF. TIAA-CREF diversifies its stock and bond investments across literally thousands of issues.

The ERISA failure that allowed the Enron employees' loss to occur is that ERISA contains an exception to its diversification requirement. ERISA allows certain types of DC plans, including 401(k) plans, to permit and/or require employees to hold these large concentrations of employer stock in their plan accounts.

Over the past two decades that 401(k) plans have been allowed⁸ there has been a huge increase in the use of DC plans, especially 401(k) plans. The Employee Benefits Research Institute (EBRI) reports that, as of the year 2000, there were more than 327 thousand 401(k) plans in effect, covering more than 43 million active participants, holding assets of $1.8 trillion. There are many reasons for this complex development.

DC plans do have disadvantages,⁹ but they have two great advantages for employees that help explain their popularity.

First, DC plans offset the lack of portability in the private pension system. DC plans produce better results for the employee who works for several employers across his or her career than does a DB plan, because DB plans use career-average service formulas that favor long-service employees. DC plans are a response to the increasing mobility of the workforce.

Second, DC plans encourage employees to engage in more pension saving than usually occurs under DB plans,¹⁰ both because the transparency of the individual account mechanism is easier for the employee to understand and to value than a distant benefit formula; and because there are ways to arrange that any money in a DC account that the employee and his or her spouse do not turn out to need for their retirement will pass to their heirs. The ability to transfer the account balance on death encourages employees to make more ample provision for their retirement, secure in the knowledge that they will not forfeit the cushion.

⁹ The two most important: (1) DC plans require ordinary workers to make important investment management decisions, which in a DC plan are the work of investment professionals; (2) DB plans can deliver larger retirement benefits per dollar of savings, because they mandate annuitization as the mode of distribution, recapturing for other plan members the sums not needed to support short-lived participants and beneficiaries. See LANGBEIN & WOLK, supra note 1, at 51-61 (providing for further discussion of the pluses and minuses of DC plans).

¹⁰ See James M. Poterba, Steven F. Venti & David Wise, The Transition to Personal Accounts and Increasing Retirement Wealth: Macro and Micro Evidence, (National Bureau of Economic Research Working Paper 8610) (2001), available at <http://papers.nber.org/papers/w8610.pdf> (providing evidence that "assets at retirement after lifetime employment under a 401(k) plan would typically be much higher than under a defined benefit plan").

Accordingly, the lesson to learn from the Enron debacle is not that DC plans should be restricted, but that the diversification standards that Congress wisely imposed on DB plans need to be extended to DC plans.

4. Diversification. The duty to diversify investments is a standard principle of good fiduciary investing practice, which was long ago¹¹ absorbed into the trust investment law.¹² ERISA has, from its enactment in 1974, imposed this duty to diversify pension fund investments. ERISA § 404(a)(1)(C).

ERISA's duty to diversify does not, however, apply to all pension plans. Rather, Congress allowed an exception for certain types of DC plans. ERISA §§ 404(a)(2), 407(d)(3). That exception is a major mistake of pension policy, and until Congress fixes it, I can predict to you with utter certainty that cases like Enron will continue to occur.

Let me say a quick word about the underlying economics of the duty to diversify. The importance of diversification is by far the most important finding in the entire field of financial economics. Over the past 40 years, we have had a stream of empirical and theoretical studies, which have led so far to six Nobel prizes in economics, conclusively showing that there are large and essentially costless gains to diversifying an investment portfolio thoroughly.

Investment risk has three distinct components: market risk, industry risk, and firm risk. Market risk is common to all securities; it reflects general economic and political conditions, interest rates, and so forth; hence, it cannot be eliminated. Industry risk, by contrast, is specific to all the firms in each industry or industry grouping. Firm risk refers to factors that affect the fortunes only of the particular firm. My favorite illustration is the example of the international oil companies. All of them suffered from the 1973 Arab embargo (industry risk). By contrast, only Exxon incurred the liabilities arising from the great Alaskan oil spill of March 1989 (firm risk). Holding shares in other industries helped prudent investors to offset the decline of the oils in 1973; holding shares of other oils helped offset the decline in Exxon.

Only about 30 percent of the risk of security ownership is market risk, that is, risk that cannot be eliminated by diversification. By contrast, industry risk amounts to about 50 percent of investment risk, and firm risk comprises the remaining 20 percent.¹³ Thus, effective diversification can eliminate roughly 70 percent of investment risk.

¹¹ We have had the duty to diversify in American trust investment law for well over a century. See, e.g., Dickinson, Appellant, 152 Mass. 184, 25 N.E. 99 (1890).

¹² RESTATEMENT (SECOND) OF TRUSTS § 228 (1959); RESTATEMENT (THIRD) OF TRUSTS: Prudent Investor Rule § 227(b) (1992).

¹³ R.A. BREALEY, AN INTRODUCTION TO RISK AND RETURN FROM COMMON STOCKS 117 (2d ed. 1983). Brealey's actual numbers are 31 percent market risk; 12 percent industry risk; 37 percent other groupings; and 20 percent firm risk. I consolidate industry and other groupings as industry risk and round to 50 percent.

And that is why, from the standpoint of good investment practice, a portfolio such as the Enron pension fund, so heavily concentrated in a single stock, any stock, is pure folly. But there are many plans sitting out there with even more employer stock than Enron. For example, as of January 2000, Proctor and Gamble had a DC plan with 96 percent in employer stock, Pfizer has one with 88 percent, Abbott Laboratories with 87 percent.¹⁴

According to the most recent data reported by EBRI, employer stock comprises 19 percent of all 401(k) plan assets,¹⁵ but that number, which averages plans with and without employer stock, understates the magnitude of the problem for the plans with the employer stock.¹⁶

5. What's wrong with employer stock. A pension fund portfolio holding a massive part of its assets in any one stock is bad; but holding such a concentration in the stock of the employer is worse. For the employees of any firm, diversification away from the stock of that employer is even more important. The simple reason is that the employee is already horrifically underdiversified by having his or her human capital tied up with the employer. The employee is necessarily exposed to the risks of the employer by virtue of the employment relationship. The last thing in the world that the employee needs is to magnify the intrinsic underdiversification of the employment relationship, by taking his or her diversifiable investment capital and tying that as well to the fate of the employer.

The Enron debacle illustrates this point poignantly. Just when many of the employees have lost their jobs, they have also lost their pension savings, which in a 401(k) plan they could have borrowed against (or with a penalty, withdrawn) in order to tide them over.

6. The incentives argument. What's the case for having employer stock in pension funds? The argument is that employers want to incentivize employees to identify with the stockholders of the firm. Making employees into stockholders will motivate them to care about the firm's profitability.

There's a simple answer to that argument: Don't do it in the pension fund. If you want to sell stock to your employees for such sound business reasons, go right ahead and do so (subject to adequate disclosure of the risks—a subject to which I shall return). But you should not be able to treat such a program as a pension fund, for two very good reasons: It abuses the pension tax subsidy and it misleads employee-participants.

Congress provides two huge tax subsidies for qualified pension plans: Employee and employer contributions to such plans are tax-deferred, and so is any investment buildup. Congress grants this subsidy in order to promote pension saving, hence to promote retirement income security. That policy is concerned to protect the employee and his spouse in their post-employment years. The policy has nothing to do with promoting employer interests. To the contrary, the most fundamental principle of ERISA fiduciary law is the so-called exclusive benefit rule, requiring that pension plan investing and administration must be done "solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries and . . . for the exclusive purpose of providing benefits" to them. ERISA § 404(a)(1)(A). Ordinarily, therefore, subordinating the interests of the employees to those of the employer is a breach of the fiduciary duty to avoid such conflicts of interest under ERISA. Apart from the statutory exception that allows employer stock in pension plans, the message of ERISA is: pension plans are for employees, not for employers. Congress provides the pension tax subsidy for employee interests.

Another way to make that point is to remind ourselves that the employee has earned the pension. Employers do not offer pension plans in order to be nice guys—indeed, employers have a fiduciary duty to their shareholders not to waste the company's assets by giving those assets away to people, even employees. These plans are not gratuities. Employers offer pension plans as part of the compensation package, as what we call deferred compensation.¹⁷ Pensions are the employee's earnings, channeled into retirement saving at the source. We should not let supposed employer preferences interfere with the best interests of the employee.

As the Enron calamity shows, employees do not understand the risks involved in holding employer stock in their pension accounts. They rely on these accounts for their retirement. Many of the employees do not have enough years left in the workforce to be able to replace the losses in subsequent employment.

7. The plan formation argument. The other claim on behalf of the status quo is that in our voluntary private pension system, if you don't let employers stuff employer stock in these plans, they won't offer the plans at all. This is highly unlikely.

In competitive markets, if one employer won't offer a pension plan while others do, that employer will be at a disadvantage in competing for workers. The employers who offer pensions today do so in order to be competitive for workers who are pension-sensitive, and such employers will continue to want to be competitive for such workers by offering pensions even if the employers are forbidden to stuff the plans with company stock.

We heard the same argument when Congress imposed vesting rules in ERISA in 1974, and when congress mandated spousal shares in 1984. The truth is that sensible pension regulation does not discourage plan formation. To the contrary, by making pension promises more reliable, it increases the attractiveness of pension plans to employees, and causes firms to offer more of them.

As regards 401(k) plans, the argument is sometimes made that if employer stock investments were curtailed, employers might continue to offer 401(k) plans, but em-

¹⁷ The claim that pensions were gifts, the so-called gratuity theory of pensions, has a long history. American law decisively rejected the gratuity theory in favor of the deferred compensation theory across the twentieth century. For discussion, see LANGBEIN & WOLK, supra note 1, at 16-17, 122-27. ERISA's vesting and benefit accrual rules implement the deferred compensation view.

employers would not continue to offer matching contributions unless in employer stock. While I doubt that, there is an easy compromise: let the employer who wishes continue to contribute employer stock (and to get the tax deduction for doing so), but require that the plan fiduciary dispose of it on the open market within a short period and reinvest the proceeds in a diversified portfolio.

8. The solution is already in ERISA. If there is one bright spot for the future in the Enron pension catastrophe, it is that we know exactly how to prevent such cases from occurring again. We not only know the cause, we also know the cure.

The losses have been caused by allowing DC plans to be underdiversified. The cure is to require diversification. Congress has successfully insisted on diversifying plan investments in DB plans for a quarter century. What is needed is to extend that regime across the DC universe, to cover all tax-qualified plans.

Congress should not prohibit employer stock from pension plans altogether, because there are situations in which a prudent fiduciary investor may choose to hold some. For example, it is common for pension investment managers to buy index funds in fiduciary accounts. Index funds hold shares in all the companies in the index, and the employer may be one of those companies.

In ERISA § 407(a)(2), Congress set a ceiling on employer stock, saying that a plan may never hold more than ten percent,¹⁸ but Congress then left it to the prudence and diversification rules of ERISA § 404(a) to govern the question of how much less than 10 percent is appropriate. The normal answer will be little or none. The one time a DB plan tried to approach the 10 percent limit, in the most famous of all ERISA investment cases, Donovan v. Bierwirth, the Second Circuit held that the investment in employer stock was imprudent. Bierwirth stands for the proposition that the prudence and diversification norms of ERISA § 404(a) govern the exercise of the up-to-ten-percent authority in ERISA § 407(a)(2).

The paradox of ERISA is that it contains both the problem and the solution to the Enron mess. ERISA contains a diversification regime that would prevent such cases from ever happening again if extended from DB to all DC plans. (Obviously, were Congress to take that step, it would be important to provide a transition period to assure orderly compliance.)

9. ESOPs. I must emphasize that everything I have said about the evils of employer stock in 401(k) plans applies equally to employee stock ownership plans (ESOPs). It has been known from the beginning in the specialist literature that ESOPs represent bad retirement policy.¹⁹ They are tools of corporate finance masquerading as pension plans.

¹⁸ ERISA § 407(a)(2), 29 U.S.C. § 1107(a) (2000).

¹⁹ ESOPs have been trenchantly criticized on a variety of policy grounds. See, e.g., Michael W. Melton, Demythologizing ESOPs, 45 TAX L. REV. 363 (1990); Richard L. Doernberg & Jonathan R. Macey, ESOPs & Economic Distortion, 23 HARV. J. LEGIS. 103 (1986); D. Bret Carlson, ESOPs & Universal Capitalism, 31 TAX L. REV. 289 (1976).

10. Disclosure. My main recommendation to you is to extend ERISA's diversification regime to all tax-qualified plans. If a plan gets the tax benefits of a pension plan, it should not hold material concentrations of employer stock.

If Congress lacks the political will to take that step, or to take it across the entirety of the DC plan universe, I would offer a weaker alternative: Congress should at least insist upon alerting employees about the risks of holding employer stock. My source of inspiration is the Surgeon General's warnings on cigarette packages. The thinking behind those warnings is that people need to be aware of the risks, so that they can alter their behavior. Transferred to the pension arena, the point is that, if employees were warned about the risks of employer stock, they would be in a better position (1) to avoid electing to buy more of it in plans that offer it as an employee option, and (2) to pressure employers to move away from ESOPs and to discontinue using employer stock in the match feature of 401(k) plans.

ERISA § 102 presently requires employers or other plan sponsors to send to employees annually a summary plan description ("SPD"), describing key features of each plan. I would recommend that Congress require that the SPD for any plan that contains an employer stock option or employer stock match contain a Surgeon General's warning, something like this:

WARNING

Under commonly accepted principles of good investment practice, a retirement account should be invested in a broadly diversified portfolio of stocks and bonds. It is particularly unwise for employees, who are already subject to the risks incident to employment, to hold significant concentrations of employer stock in an account that is meant for retirement saving.

A disclosure solution of this sort is, I repeat, a second-best solution.

The best solution is for Congress to mandate diversification across the entire universe of pension plans, as a condition of the tax subsidy that Congress grants these plans. By taking that step, Congress could tell the American worker with confidence that Congress has done what is necessary to assure that there will never again be another Enron-type pension calamity.

LEADERS IN CLASS ACTION LITIGATION

The firm's Complex Litigation practice began in 1988 with the Specialty Steel Pipe case. Keller Rohrback represented four large Wisconsin electric utility companies suing on behalf of other owners of industrial plants containing stainless steel and special alloy pipe and fittings. Fabricators and suppliers, including Allied Signal and Johnson Controls, who sold such Specialty Steel Pipe on a cost-plus basis allegedly engaged in a price-fixing conspiracy. This antitrust case was certified as a class action in Transamerica Refining Corp. v. Dravo Corp., 130 F.R.D. 70 (S.D. Tex. 1990). The Class achieved settlements of $49.5 million.

The ability of the firm has received judicial recognition both locally and nationally.

For example, Chief Judge Coughenour of the Western District of Washington found that the adequate representation requirement of Rule 23 had been satisfied appointing Keller Rohrback as class counsel, Mortimore v. F.D.I.C., 197 F.R.D. 432, 438 (W.D. Wash. 2000). Federal courts throughout the country have similarly found Keller Rohrback qualified to serve as class counsel. In re Potash Antitrust Litigation, 159 F.R.D. 682, 692 (D. Minn. 1995); In re Carbon Dioxide Antitrust Litigation, 149 F.R.D. 229, 223 (M.D. Fla. 1993).

"The Court finds that [Keller Rohrback] is experienced and qualified counsel who is generally able to conduct the litigation as lead counsel on behalf of the putative class. Keller Rohrback has significant experience in ERISA litigation, serving as co-lead counsel in the Enron ERISA litigation, the Lucent ERISA litigation, and the Providian ERISA litigation, and experience in complex class action litigation in other areas of law.” In re Williams Cos. ERISA Litigation, No. 02-153, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27691, *8 (N.D. Okla. Oct. 28, 2002) (Holmes, J.).

“Despite substantial obstacles to recovery, Keller Rohrbach was willing to undertake the significant risks presented by this case. After a year and a half of intensive litigation, including extensive discovery, motion practice, and mediation, Class Counsel achieved real and substantial benefits for members of the Class. Keller Rohrbach’s extensive prior experience in complex class action securities litigation and with Ponzi investment schemes enabled the Class to analyze and achieve this excellent result.” Getty v. Harmon (“SunAmerica Sec. Litig.”), No. 98-0178 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 20, 1999) (Dwyer, J.).

“The Keller Rohrbach firm is experienced in class action litigation and management.” Hansen v. Ticket Track, Inc., 213 F.R.D. 412, 416 (W.D. Wash. 2003) (Pechman, J.).

“[Keller Rohrbach] has performed an important public service in this action and has done so efficiently and with integrity . . . [Keller Rohrbach] has also worked creatively and diligently to obtain a settlement from WorldCom in the context of complex and difficult legal questions . . . [Keller Rohrbach] should be appropriately rewarded as an incentive for the further protection of employees and their pension plans not only in this litigation but in all ERISA actions. In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litigation, No. 02-4816 2004 WL 2338151, *10 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 18, 2004) (Cote, J.).

“The Court has repeatedly stated that the lawyering in the case at every stage was superb, and do again.” In re Linerboard Antitrust Litigation, MDL 1261, 2004 WL 1221350 *6 (E.D. Pa. June 2, 2004) (DuBois, J.).

“The evidence also demonstrates that Keller Rohrbach . . . possess[es] the experience and competence to provide adequate representation to Bjstrom and members of the proposed class and subclass.” Bjstrom v. Trust One Mortgage Corp., 199 F.R.D. 346, 349 (W.D. Wash. 2001).

In approving a settlement, Judge Alan McDonald stated, “[T]he Court is impressed by the manner in which the issues have been addressed, the action has been initiated and resolved; and that is, of course, an accolade to the attorneys on both sides of the issue. And, of course, that is the underlying basis for the Court’s approval. No one has more respect for the art of settlement than the incumbent of this bench. It is the most difficult of all undertakings by trial lawyers, and a settlement always recognizes their composite judgment, oftentimes of nuances which are impossible to articulate. So given the caliber of the attorneys involved on both sides of this matter, the Court is satisfied that if it is good enough for them, it should be good enough for the Court.” In re Soft Drink Bottling Antitrust Litigation (E.D. Wash. 1990).

An Assistant U.S. Attorney in Seattle has also recognized the firm's ability. "Fortunately, the Receiver persuaded the Seattle law firm Keller Rohrback, to review the merit of several potential cases. Keller Rohrback then immediately set to work and pursued several cases. Thus far, the lawyers have recovered approximately $8.69 Million in damages on behalf of the victims. These recoveries far outstripped anything the United States Attorney has accomplished or could have accomplished in this case, and together they represent the best hope that the victims may recover a significant portion of their losses." United States v. Philip E. Harmon, (W.D. Wash. 1999).

Antitrust

Keller Rohrback's antitrust and trade regulation practice represents individual and class plaintiffs in state and federal litigation. Our clients include consumer and business class members who have been harmed by illegal, anti-competitive conduct. Keller Rohrback has substantial expertise in pursuing claims under the Sherman and Clayton Acts for price fixing, customer allocation, market division, exclusive dealing, price discrimination, the tying or bundling of products, misleading and deceptive marketing practices, monopolization and attempted monopolization of markets, and other related practices. By litigating claims on behalf of businesses and consumers harmed by such practices, Keller Rohrback helps achieve the goal of the nation's antitrust and trade regulation statutes, ensuring that consumers get the benefits of free and fair competition in the marketplace.

Keller Rohrback has played a prominent role in large price-fixing and price discrimination cases litigated across the country. The following are examples of our antitrust experience:

Airlines

Keller Rohrback served on the Steering Committee of this class action antitrust lawsuit brought in Georgia federal court against the seven major United States airlines, which alleged a conspiracy to artificially increase the price of domestic airline tickets. The class achieved settlements totaling $458 million -- $408 million in certificates and $50 million in cash. This is one of the largest class action settlements ever reached in the United States.

Architectural Hinge

This class action lawsuit brought in Missouri federal court involved a nationwide price-fixing conspiracy among manufacturers of architectural hinges during the period 1986 through 1988. Almost $7.4 million in settlements were achieved in this case.

Bronze and Copper Flake

This class action suit was brought in New Jersey federal court and alleged a nationwide price-fixing conspiracy among major producers of bronze and copper flake from 1986 through 1989. The class achieved $2 million in settlements.

Carbon Dioxide

This class action lawsuit resulted in over $53 million in settlements. Litigated in Florida federal court, this case involved a nationwide price-fixing conspiracy among the major sellers of carbon dioxide, including Archer Daniels Midland, from January 1, 1968 to October 26, 1992.

Carpet Antitrust

This case was also was filed in the Northern District of Georgia and resulted in a $50 million settlement. United States District Judge Harold L. Murphy stated that the attorneys' "efforts in this case to date have demonstrated their great skill and ability" and that "the Court's own observations of Plaintiffs' counsel support a determination that Plaintiffs' counsel are highly reputable and responsible attorneys."

Catfish

This nationwide class action lawsuit brought in Mississippi federal court achieved almost $28 million in settlements. The class claimed a price-fixing conspiracy among processors of catfish products, including subsidiaries of Hormel and ConAgra, during the period 1985 through 1988.

Chain Link Fence

Keller Rohrback served on the Executive Committee in this class action price-fixing lawsuit brought against chain link fence manufacturers in sixteen Midwest and Western states. The class achieved over $1.3 million in settlements.

Commercial Explosives

This class action lawsuit was brought in Utah federal court alleging a nationwide conspiracy to fix prices and allocate markets among six commercial explosive manufacturers, including DuPont, from 1985 through 1993. Years of litigation yielded settlements totaling slightly more than $77 million.

Commercial Tissue

This antitrust case filed in the Northern District of Florida involved allegations of a nationwide price-fixing conspiracy among the major manufacturers of facial tissue, toilet paper, paper towels, and related products used in "away from home" settings, such as office buildings, hotels, restaurants, and schools. The parties entered into a settlement agreement valued at $56.2 million in cash and coupons.

Drill Bits

Purchasers of drill bits (primarily, those used in oil exploration) brought a class action lawsuit in Texas federal court claiming that manufacturers fixed prices during the period 1986 through 1991. The class achieved settlements totaling $52 million.

Infant Formula

This class action lawsuit involved a nationwide price-fixing conspiracy among three manufacturers of infant formula who dominate the market during the period January 1, 1980 to January 13, 1992. The class achieved settlements totaling $125.76 million.

Linerboard Antitrust Litigation

The class actions in this litigation recently were resolved with the recovery of more than $202 million for the benefit of a class of businesses that purchased corrugated boxes and sheets. The combined settlements are the largest ever obtained in a price-fixing class action in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and among the largest obtained in such a case nationally.

Marshfield Clinic

Keller Rohrback served as lead counsel in this consumer class action alleging illegal market divisions between medical clinics, hospitals and Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO's) in North Central Wisconsin. The class recovered $4,650,000 in settlements.

Microsoft Antitrust Litigation

Keller Rohrback L.L.P. served on the Executive Committee of plaintiffs' counsel in this class action challenging Microsoft's monopolistic practices. A class of direct purchasers of operating system software achieved a settlement of $10.5 million in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland.

Minnesota Pharmacy

Keller Rohrback was lead counsel in a class action antitrust lawsuit brought in Minnesota state court on behalf of independent pharmacies based on price discrimination in the sale of brand-name prescription drugs. The case resulted in settlements for over $1 million.

Monosodium Glutamate Antitrust Litigation

Keller Rohrback represents the Plaintiff Class in this case pending in the United States District Court for the District of Minnesota. So far, $124 million has been recovered for the benefit of a class of businesses which purchased food flavor enhancers from suppliers in the U.S., Japan, Korea, and Taiwan. Businesses which participated in the recovery received nearly 200% of the amounts they were overcharged.

NASCAR

Keller Rohrback was counsel for plaintiff in a lawsuit that charges NASCAR with breach of contract and unlawful monopolization. The suit also claims that NASCAR and another defendant, International Speedway Corporation ("ISC"), have engaged in a conspiracy to restrain trade in violation of the antitrust laws. Keller Rohrback represented the shareholders of Speedway Motorsports, Inc. ("SMI"), a publicly traded company that owns six motorsports facilities, including Texas Motor Speedway ("TMS"). The plaintiffs allege that NASCAR breached a promise to award a second annual Nextel Cup race date to Texas Motor Speedway. They also allege that NASCAR unlawfully maintains a monopoly and has conspired with ISC in the allocation of new Nextel Cup race dates to motorsports facilities. Specifically, NASCAR has awarded the last three new Nextel Cup dates to speedways in which ISC owns an interest, to the exclusion of superior non-ISC tracks. In May 2004, the parties announced that they had reached a settlement agreement, pursuant to which SMI would purchase North Carolina Speedway, located in Rockingham, North Carolina ("Rockingham"), from ISC for $100.4 million. NASCAR would then sanction the Nextel Cup Series race previously hosted by Rockingham at TMS in the 2005 season. Therefore, TMS would host two Nextel Cup Series races in 2005: on April 17, 2005 and again on November 6, 2005. The settlement was approved by the Texas federal court.

NASDAQ

This nationwide class action brought in New York federal court alleged a price-fixing conspiracy among market makers that comprise the NASDAQ stock exchange. The class achieved a settlement of over $1 billion, which is the largest antitrust recovery (class action or otherwise) ever achieved.

Pipe and Tube

Keller Rohrback served as lead counsel in this class action case that was brought in Washington federal court involving a price-fixing conspiracy among pipe and tube distributors in eight Western states during the period 1984 through 1986. See, Koulouris v. Builders Fence, 146 F.R.D. 193 (W.D. 1991). Settlements totaling $650,000 were achieved.

Soft Drink

Keller Rohrback served as lead counsel in this class action lawsuit bought on behalf of purchasers against soft drink bottling companies in Eastern Washington claiming a price-fixing conspiracy during the period 1976 through 1989. Almost $2 million in settlements were achieved in this case.

Steel Pail

This case involved a price-fixing conspiracy among manufacturers of steel pails throughout the United States during the period 1989 through 1992. Keller Rohrback served on the Executive Committee in this case brought in Ohio federal court. The class achieved settlements totaling $4 million.

Steel Drum

Keller Rohrback served on the Executive Committee in this class action case brought in Ohio federal court. Purchasers of new steel drums throughout the United States claimed a price-fixing conspiracy among manufacturers during the period 1987 through 1990. The class achieved $7.36 million in settlements.

Toys "R" Us

This class action was brought in New York federal court where the FTC found that Toys "R" Us had unlawfully used its dominant market power to orchestrate and enforce agreements between itself and toy manufacturers to restrict sales to "wholesale" clubs. The settlement achieved by plaintiff class and 44 state attorney's general provides for injunctive relief and the payment of almost $57 million in toys and cash.

Wholesale Vitamins Price Fixing

Keller Rohrback played an extensive role in trial preparation in this case, one of the largest and most successful antitrust cases in history. Chief Judge Thomas Hogan of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia certified two classes of businesses who directly purchased bulk vitamins and were overcharged as a result of a ten-year global price-fixing and market allocation conspiracy. Through settlement and verdict, recoveries were achieved, including four major settlements between certain vitamin defendants and Class Plaintiffs, including a landmark partial settlement of $1.1 billion.

Wisconsin Pharmacy

Keller Rohrback was lead counsel in a class action lawsuit brought in Wisconsin state court on behalf of over 500 independent pharmacies based on price discrimination in the sale of brand-name prescription drugs. The case resulted in settlements of over $5 million.

ERISA

Our ERISA Litigation Group helped pioneer this field of law in the IKON, Lucent and Enron ERISA cases, the first large-scale ERISA 401(k) breach of fiduciary duty cases of their kind. Since then, Keller Rohrback has played a major role in developing the law and establishing that ERISA's strict fiduciary duties apply to companies' investment of employees' retirement savings in the stock of the employers. Our efforts have resulted in numerous published decisions upholding plaintiffs' ERISA claims, granting class certification, and approving several multi-million dollar settlements. In all, to date, Keller Rohrback has recovered over $426 million for employees on behalf of their retirement savings plans.

Federal courts throughout the country have recognized Keller Rohrback's qualifications to vigorously pursue ERISA class action claims. Thus, Keller Rohrback serves as lead or co-lead counsel in almost every major ERISA breach of fiduciary duty case involving 401(k) and ESOP plans, including the Enron ERISA Litigation, *WorldCom, Inc. ERISA 401(k) and ESOP Cases

From the first ever reported 401(k) company stock breach of fiduciary duty case, Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc., No. MDL 1318 (E.D. Pa.), Keller Rohrbach attorneys have successfully guided clients through the exceptionally complex ERISA field. Indeed, since Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc., Keller Rohrbach has continued to act as a trailblazer by serving as lead or co-lead counsel in numerous ERISA breach of fiduciary duty cases – including the landmark cases listed below – in which the claims now routinely alleged in other complaints have been validated include: (1) failure to prudently and loyally manage the plan and plan assets; (2) failure to provide complete and accurate information regarding company stock to Plan participants; and (3) failure to prudently monitor Plan. Courts have again and again praised Keller Rohrbach's leadership and successful results in this highly complex and rapidly developing area of law.

First Of Its Kind ERISA 401(k) And ESOP Cases:

Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc.

(Also cited as “In re IKON Office Solutions, Inc. Securities Litigation.”) The current wave of 401(k) company stock cases began with Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc. In a first-of-its-kind complaint, we alleged that company stock was an imprudent investment for the plan, that the fiduciaries of the plan failed to provide complete and accurate information concerning company stock to the participants, and that they failed to address their conflicts of interest. This case resulted in ground-breaking opinions in the ERISA 401(k) area of law on motions to dismiss, Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc., 86 F. Supp. 2d 481 (E.D. Pa. 2000); class certification, Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc., 191 F.R.D. 457 (E.D. Pa. 2000); approval of securities settlements with a carve-out for ERISA claims, In re IKON Office Solutions Sec. Litigation, 194 F.R.D. 166 (E.D. Pa. 2000); and approval of ERISA settlements, Whetman v. IKON Office Solutions, Inc., 209 F.R.D. 94 (E.D. Pa. 2002).

In re Lucent Technologies, Inc. ERISA Litigation

Keller Rohrbach was appointed co-lead counsel in this class action brought on behalf of participants and beneficiaries of the Lucent defined contribution plans that invested in Lucent stock. The complaint alleged that the defendants withheld and concealed material information from participants, thereby encouraging participants and beneficiaries to continue to make and to maintain substantial investments in company stock and the plans. The settlement provided for, among other relief, the payment of $69 million in cash and stock to the plan. Judge Joel Pisano of the New Jersey federal court approved the settlement on December 12, 2003.

In re Enron Corp. ERISA Litigation

Keller Rohrback L.L.P. serves as co-lead counsel in this class action filed in the Southern District of Texas. On September 30, 2003, Judge Melinda Harmon denied defendants' numerous motions to dismiss in a landmark decision that addressed in detail defendants' obligations as ERISA fiduciaries, and upheld plaintiffs' core ERISA claims. See Tittle v. Enron Corp., 284 F. Supp. 2d 511 (S.D. Tex 2003). Plaintiffs have achieved four partial settlements totaling more than $264 million in cash to the Enron Plans against Enron directors, officers and plan fiduciaries.

In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litigation

Keller Rohrback serves as lead counsel in this class action filed in the Southern District of New York on behalf of participants and beneficiaries of the WorldCom 401(k) Salary Savings Plan. On June 17, 2003, Judge Denise Cote denied in part defendants' motions to dismiss. See In re WorldCom, Inc. ERISA Litig., 263 F. Mr. Kilgard currently serves in leadership positions in the Enron ERISA Litigation and BellSouth ERISA Litigation. In addition to his ERISA 401(k) class action expertise, Mr. Kilgard has expertise in complex Chapter 11 bankruptcy litigation and issues, which has proved invaluable in ERISA cases in which defendants also are debtors in bankruptcy.

He joined the Plan Benefits Security Division ("PBS") of the Office of the Solicitor of Labor as a trial attorney in 1978, and was appointed Assistant Counsel for Fiduciary Litigation in 1982. At the start of 1984, he joined Beins, Axelrod and Osborne, P.C. practicing general labor and ERISA law on behalf of unions and multiemployer plans. (settlement of $9.25 Million) which challenged the sale of stock for $25 million by the family shareholders to the Azon Corporation ESOP, Mr. Barton briefed and argued the motions for summary judgment, resulting in denial of defendants' motions and granting plaintiffs' motion for partial summary judgment. In Simpson v. Fireman's Fund Insurance Company (N.D. Cal.), Mr. Barton represented a class of active and terminated employees alleging that FFIC's policy of terminated persons on disability violated the discrimination provisions of ERISA, and obtained a settlement which included restoring their right to benefits for a period of years and also reimbursement of past expenses. Additionally, Mr. Barton has also been involved in a number of cases alleging breach of fiduciary duty by investing the 401k plan in company stock. Mr. Barton is currently working on a case against certain insiders at Tharaldson Motels who sold stock to the ESOP for $500 million, Hans v. Gary Tharaldson et al. (D.N.D.) and a case against SBC Communications (now AT&T), Stoffels et al. v. SBC Communications (W.D. Tex.) alleging that their provision and subsequent elimination of cash payments via a program known as Telephone Concession constituted a defined benefit pension plan under ERISA and violated ERISA. At the hearing on the class certification motion, in Stoffels, the Court complimented Mr. Barton on the quality of his advocacy and subsequently certified the class as requested.

Mr. Barton has been active in a number of securities fraud lawsuits including In re Physician Corporation of America Securities Litigation (S.D. Fla.) Mr. Barton has also worked on a number of antitrust actions. Mr. Barton was a part of the team that engaged in intensive trial preparations in In re High Fructose Corn Syrup Antitrust Litigation, (C.D. In connection with the Mercedes-Benz litigation, Mr. Barton briefed and argued and obtained summary judgment on a matter of first impression that established that lessee-plaintiffs had standing to sue as direct purchasers under the federal antitrust laws.

Additionally, Mr. Barton considers pro bono activities to be an important part of his practice. Along with the non-profit law firm Midwest Environmental Advocates, Mr. Barton provided pro bono representation to the grassroots citizens action group Clean Water Action Council of Northeastern Wisconsin, in objecting to a settlement by the United States Department of Justice and the State of Wisconsin concerning natural resource damages in the Fox River area of Wisconsin. Mr. Barton also represented a client in D.C. Superior Court against her former employer who refused to pay her wages and overtime, in which the Judge described Mr. Barton's representation as follows: "everything done on behalf of the Plaintiff has been professional, timely and thorough."

DECLARATION OF MARY ELLEN SIGNORILLE
IN SUPPORT OF ESPOSITO PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR APPOINTMENT
AS LEAD PLAINTIFFS AND LEAD COUNSEL

I, Mary Ellen Signorille, hereby declare as follows:

I have personal knowledge of the facts contained in this declaration and, if called to testify, will testify as set forth below.

Background of Mary Ellen Signorille

1. I am a Senior Staff Attorney with AARP Foundation Litigation, located in Washington, D.C.
2. Since 1979, I have specialized in pension and employee benefit litigation and consultation under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA"). From 1979 through 1986, I did so as an attorney and shareholder with the law firm of Abato & Abato, P.A., which later merged into Abato, Rubenstein & Abato, P.A., located in Baltimore, Maryland. Subsequently, between 1986 through 1992, I worked as an associate with the law firm of Rogovin, Huge & Schiller, which after a merger was renamed Donovan, Leisure, Rogovin, Huge & Schiller. I performed this work for employers, labor organizations and employee benefit plans located primarily in the Mid-Atlantic states.

3. Since 1993, I have worked as a senior staff attorney at AARP and its affiliated Foundation. I have been the attorney with lead responsibility for AARP's judicial advocacy on employee benefits issues. I have appeared as counsel of record for AARP in more than 20 amicus curiae briefs filed before the Supreme Court presenting AARP's view, and the views of its nearly 40 million members, on the Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA"). I have prepared numerous amicus curiae briefs on pension and employee benefits laws on behalf of AARP and its members in cases before the U.S. Court of Appeals, federal district and state courts. I have drafted many of AARP's comments on proposed regulations to the various agencies charged with enforcing ERISA. I have presented AARP's position on various federal legislative proposals to Congressional and agency staff including AARP's legislative proposal to limit the amount of employer stock available for investment in defined contribution plans. I have advocated before the National Association of Insurance Commissioners to enact a Model Act prohibiting discretionary clauses in health and disability insurance contracts.

4. Among my duties at AARP Foundation Litigation is to keep abreast of the current issues in ERISA litigation, to act as a clearinghouse for counsel trying cases and to provide my expertise to attorneys litigating these cases. During the past fifteen years at AARP and its affiliated Foundation, I have received numerous phone calls and correspondence for assistance with cases. Unfortunately, far too many of them have been in cases where counsel did not have the requisite background to understand or know of nuances in the law or were unaware of potential changes in the law.

5. My legal work in the pension and employee benefit plan area has included the litigation of a broad spectrum of employee benefit and ERISA issues. This has included litigation regarding preemption, benefit claims, breaches of fiduciary duty, and the scope of relief available under the different subsections of ERISA §502(a), 29 U.S.C. §1132(a). At present, virtually all of my work is in the employee benefit area.

6. From 2001-2004 I was the Plaintiff Co-Chair of the American Bar Association's Employee Benefits Committee (EBC) of the Labor and Employment Section. (The other two co-chairs are designated the Management Co-Chair and the Union Co-Chair). Part of the duties of this position included recruiting plaintiffs' lawyers to join the EBC. I have been a contributor to Employee Benefits Law (BNA), a publication of the ABA. As such, I have served as a chapter editor for various chapters of the Second Edition and for the supplements thereto. Those chapters include the chapters on preemption and reporting and disclosure. Currently, I am in charge of coordinating the revision of the treatise including recruiting lawyers to rewrite sections of the treatise consistent with their specialized knowledge of ERISA.

7. I am and have been a regular speaker at the American Bar Association's Annual "ERISA Litigation: Tactics and Strategy," "ERISA Basics" and "Health and Welfare Benefit Plans: The Pressure is On" seminars, where I have spoken on a broad range of ERISA topics, including issues at the heart of this case for the last ten years. I have also been active in the National Employment Lawyers Association and have spoken on ERISA topics at numerous Annual Conferences as well as NELA's "ERISA for the Plaintiff Employment Lawyer" conference in October 2000. In the past I have also presented papers at numerous Thompson Legal Works' ERISA Litigation Conferences. In 2003 and 2004, I have also lectured and taught on the subject of pension law and employee benefits during the "Elderlaw" course at the George Washington School of Law. From 2000-2003, I spoke at the National Aging and Law Conference on ERISA Basics and benefits claims. In 2003, I lectured at the Kenneth M. Piper Lecture at the Chicago-Kent College of Law and my commentary was published at Commentary: Is it Time to Take the Broom and Really Clean House? A New Paradigm for Employee Benefits, 79 CHI.-KENT L. REV. 655 (2004). In 2006 I spoke at the New York University's 59th Labor and Employment Law Conference on current ERISA litigation issues.

8. Other publications include: Overrule Mertens v. Hewitt Associates: The Time Is Now, 2 EMPLOYEE RIGHTS QUARTERLY NO. 2 (August 2001); A Primer on Private Pension Plans, 34 CLEARINGHOUSE REVIEW 327 (Sept-Oct 2000); and various articles for the ABA EMPLOYEE BENEFITS COMMITTEE NEWSLETTER.

9. I am a former Co-Chair and Steering Committee member of the District of Columbia Bar's Labor and Employment Law Section.

10. I was named one of the top employee benefits lawyers by the National Law Journal in 1998 and was elected to the charter class of the American College of Employee Benefits Counsel in 2000. I am currently on the Board of Governors of the College and was elected as its Treasurer.

11. I am currently a representative to the American Bar Association's Joint Council on Employee Benefits.

12. I graduated from SUNY at Buffalo in 1974 with a B.A. degree and from Catholic University, Columbus School of Law in 1977 with a J.D. degree. I received my L.L.M. from Georgetown University in 1980. I was admitted to practice in the District of Columbia in December 1977, and to the state of Maryland in May 1980, and am a member in good standing of these Bars. In addition to these state bar memberships, I am admitted to practice before the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia and Maryland, as well as the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Circuit Courts of Appeal and the U.S. Supreme Court.

AARP Involvement in 401(k) Plan Employer Security Litigation

13. AARP Foundation decided to act as co counsel in the first case filed against WorldCom titled as Vivien v. Worldcom. AARP has always been concerned with the retirement security of our nearly 40 million members. As of the end of 2006, employer-sponsored defined contribution plans held $3.26 trillion in assets, Flow of Funds Accounts of the United States, Flows and Outstandings Third Quarter 2007, FEDERAL RESERVE STATISTICAL RELEASE at Table L. 118.c (Dec. 6, 2007), with $2.698 trillion in 401(k) plans. Investment Company Institute, Frequently Asked Questions About 401(k) Plans, available at http://www.ici.org/home/faqs_401k.html (June 2007). Since 1981, the number of 401(k) plans has significantly increased, making defined contribution plans the nation's primary retirement savings vehicle. PETER BRADY & SARAH HOLDEN, The U.S. Retirement Markets, 2006, RESEARCH FUNDAMENTALS (Investment Company Institute, Washington, D.C.), July 2007, available at <http://www.ici.org/pdf/fm-v16n3.pdf>. As the number of 401(k) plans have increased, the efficacy of 401(k) plans to provide retirement security has been a major concern since the mid-1980's. Accordingly, the underlying issues in the Vivien lawsuit have been a major policy issue for AARP for close to fifteen years. In particular, the security of 401(k) accounts and the duties and responsibilities of fiduciaries and employers to 401(k) participants have been of particular concern because there are few substantive rules in ERISA concerning the use of employer stock in 401(k) plans as compared with the 10% maximum for the use of employer stock and employer real estate in defined benefit plans. Corporate scandals which came to light in 2002 have cost Americans more than $200 billion in lost investment savings, jobs, pension losses and tax revenue. Losses from 401(k) accounts alone totaled $175 billion. No More Enrons Coalition, THE COST OF CORPORATE RECKLESSNESS (2002).¹ Other estimates place retirement fund losses over $1.5 trillion. Catherine Valenti, Enron Imploded a Year Ago: What's Changed for Investors?, ABC NEWS MONEYScope, (November 27, 2002), available at http://abcnews.go.com/sections/business/DailyNews/enronanniversary_021127.html. Moreover, the underlying issues in Vivien dovetailed with our legislative and regulatory advocacy efforts on these issues. As the number of 401(k) plans have increased, the efficacy of 401(k) plans to provide retirement security has been a major concern since the mid-1980's. Accordingly, the underlying issues in the Vivien lawsuit have been a major policy issue for AARP for more than 10 years

14. Subsequent to AARP Foundation's participation as counsel in Vivien v. WorldCom, AARP has filed amicus curiae briefs in Steinman v. Hicks, 352 F.3d 1101 (7th Cir. 2003); Milofsky v. Am. Airlines, Inc., 442 F.3d 311 (5th Cir. 2006); In re Schering Plough ERISA

Litig., 420 F.3d 231 (3d Cir. 2005); and In re Elec. Data Sys. Corp. "ERISA" Litig., 226 F.R.D. 559 (E.D. Tex 2005), on appeal as Langbecker v. Elec. Data Sys. Corp., No. 04-41760, (5th Cir. March 2005) (settled after oral argument); In re Reliant Energy ERISA Litig., 336 F.Supp.2d 646 (S.D. Tex. 2004), on appeal as Kirschbaum v. Reliant Energy, Inc., No. 06-20157 (5th Cir. Aug. 2006); and LaRue v. DeWolff, Boberg, & Assocs., Inc., 450 F.3d 570 (4th Cir. 2006), reh'g en banc denied, 458 F.3d 359 (4th Cir. 2006), cert. granted, 127 S. Ct. 2971 (June 18, 2007) (No. 06-856), concerning issues arising in 401(k) employer stock securities cases.

Expertise of Counsel

15. I have been aware of the expertise of Marc Machiz of Cohen, Milstein, Hausfeld and Toll, and his capabilities as a litigator specializing in ERISA cases, from past work with his firm as well as during his tenure as Associate Solicitor of the Plan Security Division at the U.S. Department of Labor over the last 13 years. He is considered one of the leading plaintiff's ERISA attorneys in the country. Mr. Machiz is one of the few attorneys who has proven himself to be quite skilled in ERISA. When AARP needs to take a position on a novel issue of law, he is one of the attorneys I call to seek his view. I have also worked with him on amicus briefs to the United States Supreme Court and was extremely impressed by his breadth of knowledge, his quick intellect and the precision in his work. Mr. Machiz replaced me as the chapter editor on the ABA's Employee Benefit Treatise Preemption Chapter and has done a significant amount of work reediting that Chapter. I am aware of his integrity and concern that class members receive a significant benefit from any litigation, not only from past work with him, but from participation with him on American Bar Association panels.

Xerox, Tyco International, Qwest Communications, and others.

16. I have been aware of the expertise of Lynn Sarko of Keller, Rohrback and his capabilities as a litigator specializing in ERISA cases, from past work with his firm during the Vivien v. WorldCom in which he was appointed lead counsel. AARP members have generally provided me with favorable comments about the settlement of that case. In addition, I am aware of the excellent reputation of the Keller, Rohrback firm in obtaining results for class members, as well as its resources to litigate major class action lawsuits. Finally, I am aware of his integrity and concern that class members receive a significant benefit from any litigation, not only from past work with him, but from participation with him on American Bar Association panels. Among the duties of the co-chairs of the American Bar Association's Employee Benefits Committee of the Labor and Employment Section are to develop ABA's annual ERISA Litigation seminar and Mid-Winter Meeting including selecting the speakers. Mr. Sarko was chosen to speak at these seminars because of his in-depth knowledge concerning the substantive law of ERISA on employer stock litigation, the practicalities of identifying worthy cases, the strategies necessary to successfully litigate ERISA employer stock cases, and his rating as an excellent and knowledgeable speaker by the attendees of these seminars in their evaluations.

17. Litigation concerning ERISA issues is time-consuming, difficult and not desirable to litigate. Notwithstanding the recent desire of many plaintiffs' securities lawyers to try their hand at ERISA litigation in the context of 401(k) employer stock cases, there are very few well-qualified attorneys who are willing to represent participants in ERISA cases as the mainstay of their practice. For example, one of my duties as plaintiff co-chair for the ABA's Employee Benefit Committee (EBC) of the Labor and Employment Section was to increase the number of attorneys representing participants in that Committee. Out of 235 attendees at the 2004 ABA

EBC Midwinter Meeting only 35 represented participants on a regular basis; this was the largest number of attorneys representing participants that ever attended this meeting. These cases require a high degree of knowledge under ERISA, and few attorneys are willing to litigate these cases who I believe have the requisite knowledge and commitment to ERISA litigation, as well as the relevant advocacy skills and capabilities.

18. Mr. Machiz, Mr. Sarko and myself are in frequent communication concerning developments in the law that will affect the ability of participants to successfully recover assets lost by pension plan investments in employer stock. For example, when class certification in a recent case in which Mr. Sarko served as counsel, In re Elec. Data Sys. Corp. "ERISA" Litigation, 224 F.R.D. 613(E.D. Tex 2005) was on appeal to the Fifth Circuit, Mr. Sarko contacted both myself and Mr. Machiz about the important issues presented. As a result of our discussions, AARP filed an amicus brief to address some of these issues, and Mr. Machiz (along with Professor Norman Stein of the University of Alabama Law School) was selected by the Pension Rights Center, another non-profit group dedicated to protecting the rights of pension plan participants, to file a complementary brief providing a different perspective on the issues in the case. In another example, in late December 2004, the U.S. Department of Labor took a position that some commentators have suggested changed its position in its Enron brief. See 31 BNA PENSION REPORTER No. 50 at 2804-05 (December 28, 2004); Field Assistance Bulletin No. 2004-03 available at http://www.dol.gov/ebsa/regs/fab_2004-3.html. Mr. Machiz, Mr. Sarko and I had extensive discussions concerning both the underpinnings and the implications of this Department of Labor opinion. In their dedication not merely to prosecuting individual cases, but to understanding and advocating for the development of the ERISA case law, Mr. Sarko and Mr.

Machiz are matched by only a handful of ERISA plaintiffs' attorneys.

19. In the context of ERISA fiduciary breach cases including cases involving employer stock, AARP has two main concerns. The first concern is that in a particular case, the outcome makes plans and their participants and beneficiaries whole for their losses and protects their retirement security. The second concern is that the law develops in a way that is beneficial to future advocacy efforts. Because AARP is committed to the ensuring that cases are litigated by those who best represent those retired, those soon to be retired and those who will eventually be able to be retired, the competence and expertise of counsel in the area of ERISA company stock litigation, and their resources to litigate an ERISA case should be paramount in choosing lead counsel. Mr. Machiz, Mr. Sarko and their respective law firms possess the competence, dedication and resources to effectively litigate these cases in a way that furthers the interests of the participants and advances the development of the law.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed this 7th day of February 2008, at the District of Columbia.

I, Carl Esposito, hereby declare as follows:

1. I have personal knowledge of the facts contained in this declaration and, if called to testify, will testify as set forth below.

2. I am a current participant in the Merrill Lynch 401(k) Savings and Investment Plan (the "SIP"), the Merrill Lynch Retirement Accumulation Plan (the "RAP"), and the Merrill Lynch Employee Stock Ownership Plan (the "Traditional ESOP") (collectively the "Plans"). As of January 1, 2007, I held approximately 1,294 shares of Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans which was then valued at approximately $120,483. I continued to acquire Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans during the proposed Class Period, January 18, 2007 to the present (the "Class Period"). The value of the Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans has decreased approximately 45 percent since the beginning of the Class Period. A significant portion of my retirement savings in the Plans was invested in Merrill Lynch stock as a result of the way the Plans were administered by the Plans' fiduciaries during the Class Period. This investment has been decimated by the failure of the Plans' fiduciaries to do what was necessary under the law to protect the Plans.

3. The Plans have tens of thousands of participants who, like me, have suffered tremendous losses as a result of the recent Merrill Lynch debacle. I understand that as a proposed Class Representative my job in this case is to represent the interests of all of the participants of the Plans who have suffered similar harm as me, and, furthermore, that this action is brought on behalf of the Plans under ERISA, and not to recover any personal losses of my own.

4. My lawyers have explained to me that my duties in this regard include the following:

- a. Consider the interest of the class just as I would consider my own interests;
- b. Vindicate the legal rights of the entire class, in addition to vindicating my own legal rights, which provides "economies of scale" that save time, money, and effort for plaintiffs, defendants, and the judicial system;
- c. Participate actively in the lawsuit, such as by reviewing and approving significant briefs (e.g., the complaint Esposito v. Merrill Lynch & Co., et al.), before they are filed, testifying at deposition and trial, and answering written interrogatories;
- d. Continue to be aware of the status and progress of the lawsuit; and
- e. Provide my lawyers and the court with all relevant facts of which I am aware.

5. I understand these duties and will abide by them if I am appointed to serve as a Class Representative in this case.

6. I understand as well that several different firms have filed suit against Merrill Lynch on behalf of participants of the Plans and are seeking to be appointed lead counsel in this case.

7. I support the leadership structure proposed by Keller Rohrback L.L.P. ("Keller Rohrback") and Cohen, Milstein, Hausfeld & Toll P.L.L.C. ("Cohen Milstein") since they have substantial experience litigating ERISA class action cases like this one and have served successfully in leadership positions in many other similar ERISA cases. I believe that this structure will ensure that I, and the class of persons I seek to represent, will have the best counsel possible to pursue the interests of the class. Their past experience is important to me as I do not think it would be in the best interests of the participants of the Plans to be represented by counsel with less experience than Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein. I am sure that the defendants in this case have obtained the best defense counsel for the job, and, as a proposed Class Representative, I believe that I would be remiss if I did not seek to have the best plaintiffs' counsel appointed as well.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

I, Barbara Boland, hereby declare as follows:

1. I have personal knowledge of the facts contained in this declaration and, if called to testify, will testify as set forth below.

2. I am a current participant in the Merrill Lynch 401(k) Savings and Investment Plan (the "SIP"), the Merrill Lynch Retirement Accumulation Plan (the "RAP"), and the Merrill Lynch Employee Stock Ownership Plan (the "Traditional ESOP") (collectively the "Plans"). As of January 1, 2007, I held approximately 1709 shares of Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans which was then valued at approximately $159,152. During the proposed Class Period, January 18, 2007 to the present (the "Class Period"), I acquired approximately 1,000 additional shares of Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans. As of year end 2007, I held approximately 2730 shares of Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans which was then valued at approximately $146,537. The value of the Merrill Lynch stock in the Plans has decreased approximately 45 percent since the beginning of the Class Period. A significant portion of my retirement savings in the Plans was invested in Merrill Lynch stock as a result of the way the Plans were administered by the Plans' fiduciaries during the Class Period. This investment has been decimated by the failure of the Plans' fiduciaries to do what was necessary under the law to protect the Plans.

3. The Plans have tens of thousands of participants who, like me, have suffered tremendous losses as a result of the recent Merrill Lynch debacle. 4. My lawyers at Zimmerman Reed PLLP have explained to me that my duties in this regard include the following:

- a. Consider the interest of the class just as I would consider my own interests;
- b. Vindicate the legal rights of the entire class, in addition to vindicating my own legal rights, which provides "economies of scale" that save time, money, and effort for plaintiffs, defendants, and the judicial system;
- c. Participate actively in the lawsuit, such as by reviewing and approving significant briefs (e.g., the complaint Boland v. Merrill Lynch & Co., et al.) before they are filed, testifying at deposition and trial, and answering written interrogatories;
- d. Continue to be aware of the status and progress of the lawsuit; and
- e. Provide my lawyers and the court with all relevant facts of which I am aware.

5. I understand these duties and will abide by them if I am appointed to serve as a Class Representative in this case.

6. I understand as well that several different firms have filed suit against Merrill Lynch on behalf of participants of the Plans and are seeking to be appointed lead counsel in this case.

7. As I discussed with my attorneys at Zimmerman Reed PLLP, I support the leadership structure proposed by Keller Rohrback L.L.P. ("Keller Rohrback") and Cohen, Milstein, Hausfeld & Toll P.L.L.C. ("Cohen Milstein") since they have substantial experience litigating ERISA class action cases like this one and have served successfully in leadership positions in many other similar ERISA cases. I believe that the leadership structure proposed by Keller Rohrback and Cohen Milstein is the best of the three leadership structures now presented by plaintiffs in this case. I am sure that the defendants in this case have obtained the best defense counsel for the job, and, as a proposed Class Representative, I believe that I would be remiss if I did not speak in favor of the best option now before the Court.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
